Carder, 2013-04-17 The aim of the present book has been to provide an outline the first of its kin of the history of the human efforts to map the topography of the surface of our satellite from the days of pre telescopic astronomy up to the present These efforts commenced modestly at the time when the unaided eye was still the only tool at the disposal of men interested in the face of our satellite and were continued since for more than three centuries by a small band of devoted friends of the Moon in several countries Many of these were amateur astronomers and almost all were amateur cartographers though some highly skilled in their art The reader interested in the history of lunar mapping between 1600 and 1960 will find its outline in the first chapter of this book and can follow the way in which the leadership in the mapping of the Moon the cradle of which stood in Italy passed successively to France Germany and eventually to the United States All efforts described in this chapter were wholly superseded by subsequent developments since 1960 largely motivated by logistic needs of a grand effort which culminated with repeated manned landings on the Moon between 1969 1972 a feat which will remain for ever one of the glories of our century New Guide to the Moon Patrick Moore, 1953 Moon Handbook Carl Koppeschaar, 2000-03 Maps of the Moon Thomás A. S. Haddad, 2019-12-30 When does a depiction of the moon become a lunar map This publication addresses this question from theoretical and historical standpoints It is argued that moon maps are of crucial importance to the history of cartography for they challenge established notions of what a map is how it functions what its purposes are and what kind of power it embodies and performs The publication also shows how terrestrial cartography has shaped the history of lunar mapping since the seventeenth century through visual and nomenclature conventions the cultural currency of maps mapmakers social standing and data gathering and projection practices It further demonstrates that lunar cartography has also been organized by an internal principle that is born of the fundamental problem of how to create static map spaces capable of representing a referent that is constantly changing to our eyes as is the visible face of the moon It is suggested that moon maps may be classed in three broad categories according to the kinds of solutions for this representational problem that have been devised over the last 400 years

Philip's Moon Map, 2014-09-01 In a convenient folded format Philip's Moon Map is a superbly detailed large format map of the near visible side of the Moon Specially drawn for Philip's by Dr John Murray an expert on the lunar surface the map is not only a highly accurate and clear representation of the Moon but is also a practical guide for lunar observers More than 500 physical features craters seas mountain ranges peaks valleys and rilles elongated depressions are named and indexed and the landing sites of unmanned and manned spacecraft are also marked The observer can thus readily identify objects seen through binoculars or a telescope or pick targets for a programme of observation The accompanying text is a practical guide to Moonwatching which explains how to use the map and highlights the most interesting lunar features Close up images of some of these objects show what the observer can expect to see Also included are photographs of the Moon at each daily stage and a smaller map of the far side as revealed by satellites Guidelines on drawing or photographing the Moon are also included

The Moon James Kavanagh, 2017-08-15 The brightest and largest object in the night sky the Moon is about 1/4 the diameter of Earth and is approximately 240 000 miles 385 000 km distant This folding pocket guide provides simplified reference to the Moon and its surface features its phases and how these affect gravitation on Earth eclipses myths and viewing hints Detailed maps of the Moon highlight prominent craters mountains ranges seas highlands and manned moon landing sites Laminated for durability this indispensable pocket reference is ideal for astronomers of all ages Made in the USA www.waterfordpress.com
