father of Noh theater Victorian Fiction as a Bildungsroman Petru Golban, 2019-09-30 Metaphorically speaking the nineteenth century English Bildungsroman dealing with the principle of identity formation parallels Victorian fiction as a whole revealing the completion of its own formation which began in the eighteenth century Significantly the most important and popular Victorian novels are Bildungsromane in which authors construct or rather reconstruct their own life experiences as formative processes This book shows that the Bildungsroman has a development history is a specific literary system and consists of a thematic and narrative pattern It details the entrance of this newly established fictional tradition into Victorian culture and literature through Carlyle's threefold literary reception of the novel of formation and its subsequent flourishing and complexity In this respect a number of novelistic works are scrutinized and each faces the question as to whether its thematic and narrative perspectives fit the pattern and shape of the Bildungsroman Responsibility in Law and Morality Peter Cane, 2002-04-17 Lawyers who write about responsibility tend to focus on criminal law at the expense of civil and public law while philosophers tend to treat responsibility as a moral concept and either ignore the law or consider legal responsibility to be a more or less distorted reflection of its moral counterpart This book aims to counteract both of these biases By adopting a comparative institutional approach to the relationship between law and morality it challenges the common view that morality stands to law as critical standard to conventional practice It shows how law and morality interact symbiotically and how careful study of legal concepts of responsibility can add significantly to our understanding of responsibility more generally Central to this project is a distinction between two paradigms of responsibility the criminal law paradigm and the civil law paradigm Whereas theoretical discussions of responsibility tend to focus on conduct and agency taking account of civil law reveals the importance of outcomes and the interests of victims and society to ideas of responsibility The book examines from a distinctively legal point of view central philosophical questions about responsibility such as its relationship with culpability challenging the common view that moral responsibility requires fault causation and personality It explores the relevance of sanctions and problems of proof and enforcement to ideas of responsibility as well as the relationship between responsibility and distributive justice and the role of concepts of responsibility in public law At the heart of this book lie two questions what does it mean to say we are responsible and what are our responsibilities Its aim is not to answer these questions but to challenge some traditional approaches to answering them and more importantly to suggest fruitful alternative approaches that take law seriously Narrative, Authority, and Law Robin West, 1993 Challenges the moral basis for the authority of law Literary Theory Johannes Willem Bertens, 2001 Providing the ideal first step in understanding the often bewildering world of literary theory Literary Theory The Basics is an easy to follow and clearly presented introduction to this fascinating area Showing that theory can not only make sense but also radically change the way in which we read Literary Theory The Basics leads readers through the major approaches to literature that are signalled by the term literary theory places each critical movement in its historical and often political context illustrates theory in practice with examples from well known texts suggests further reading for those especially interested in a particular critical approach Covering all the basics and much more this is the perfect book for anyone interested in how we read and why that matters
