More Secret Places of West Dorset ,2015-12 Exploring sites of mystery and beauty in Dorset this well researched volume provides insight into some lesser known aspects of the landscape revealing the mysterious qualities that make these places special It describes haunted hills and ancient trackways ancestral landmarks and historic buildings and is useful for day trips and visits to soak up the atmosphere of hidden rural Dorset Cryptid Creatures Kelly Milner Halls,2025-07-08 Explore the fascinating world of cryptozoology with this fun guide filled with eyewitness accounts of 50 cryptids found throughout the world some of which have been proven real Cryptozoology is the study of mysterious creatures that fall between the realm of real and imaginary on the scientific spectrum Cryptid Creatures A Field Guide offers a closer look at fifty of these amazing creatures examining the best possible evidence for each including scientific papers magazine and newspaper articles and credible eyewitness accounts The fifty cryptids are arranged in order alphabetically and in addition to speculative illustrations include details like when they were first reported whether they are terrestrial aerial or aquatic and each have a reality rating of 1 to 6 in which 1 means that the cryptid has been confirmed as a hoax and 6 means the cryptid has been proven as real This page turning guide will inspire curious readers to investigate more on their own and maybe even help to prove if a cryptid is a hoax or is real The Hidden Places of England Peter Long,2004 England s landscape is as diverse as its culture It is a country with magnificent landscapes This guide looks at the more established places of interest throughout the country but it also focuses on the more secluded and little known visitor attractions and places to stay eat and drink National Geographic Guide to the World's Secret Places David Yeadon,2004 Here are island hideaways on the tropical beaches of Mauritius in the Indian Ocean and on the windswept North Atlantic shores of Harris where Scottish crofters handweave their famous tweed Visit mountain aeries from the Himalaya to the Pyrenees secret realms from the harshly beautiful desertscapes of the Sahara to the lush rain forests of Costa Rica or the winding alleys of a village tucked into the foothills of the Alps Twenty eight destinations in all each place has its own unique flavor and appeal yet shares a kind of privacy and authenticity all too rare in our hectic modern world Hambleton Hill, Dorset, England Roger Mercer,Frances Healy,2014-02-15 A programme of excavation and survey directed by Roger Mercer between 1974 and 1986 demonstrated that Hambleton was the site of an exceptionally large and diverse complex of earlier Neolithic earthworks including two causewayed enclosures two long barrows and several outworks some of them defensive The abundant cultural material preserved in its ditches and pits provides information about numerous aspects of contemporary society among them conflict feasting the treatment of the human corpse exchange stock management and cereal cultivation The distinct depositional signatures of various parts of the complex reflect their diverse use The scale and manner of individual episodes of construction hint at the levels of organisation and co ordination obtaining in contemporary society Use of the complex and the construction of its various elements were episodic and intermittent spread over 300 400 hundred years and did not entail lasting settlement As well as stone axe heads exchanged from remote sources more abundant grinding equipment and pottery from adjacent regions may point to the areas from which people came to the hill If so it had important links with territories to the west north west and south in other words with land off the Wessex Chalk at the edge of which the complex lies Within the smaller compass of the immediate area of the hill including Cranborne Chase field walking survey suggests that the hill was the main focus of earlier Neolithic activity A complementary relationship with the Chase is indicated by a fairly abrupt diminution of activity on the hill in the late fourth millennium when the massive Dorset cursus and several smaller monuments were built in the Chase Renewed activity on the hill in the late third millennium and early second millennium was a prelude to occupation on and around the hill in the second millennium in the mid to late second millennium which was followed by the construction of a hillfort on the northern spur from the early first millennium Late Iron Age and Romano British activity may reflect the proximity of Hod Hill A small pagan Saxon cemetery may relate to settlement in the Iwerne valley which it overlooks

The Hidden Places of Ireland David Gerrard, 2002 This is the 3rd edition of The Hidden Places of England It is one of a series that covers the whole of the United Kingdom and is now printed in full colour providing the reader with a more scenic and pleasurable view of the hidden gems of this beautiful country England s landscape is as diverse as It s culture a country blessed with magnificent landscapes from the mountainous ranges of the Mendips and Quantocks in the west the Cumbrian fells in the North and the meandering hills of the South Downs to the picturesque county of Kent described as the Garden of Britain Not to mention East Anglia and its famous Norfolk Broads and beautiful coastline rich in wildlife England is blessed with a wonderful range of inland and coastal landscapes interesting cultures and an extraordinary rich history The Hidden Places of England explores this diversity in a relaxed narrative style by guiding the reader to some of the established visitor attractions but also focuses on the more secluded and less well known places of interest and venues for food drink accommodation and crafts The national guides are enjoyed by a large readership I am very pleased with the Hidden Places of Englan

World's Most Mysterious Castles The World's Most Mysterious Murders The World's Most Mysterious Objects The World's Most Mysterious People Unsolved Mysteries of the Sea Ancient Harp Seal Hunters of Disko Bay Morten Meldgaard, 2004 The Saqqaq Culture site Qeqertasussuk 2400-1400 BC is situated in the south eastern corner of Disko Bay West Greenland. The site was excavated between 1983 and 1987 by Qasigiannnguit Museum. The stratified cultural deposits are exceptionally well preserved by permafrost and yielded hundreds of thousands of animal bones, feathers, plant remains, insect remains, wooden implements and a wealth of other organic refuse as well as stone tools, house ruins, stone set fireplaces and other traces of habitation. In order to understand the life conditions of the inhabitants at Qeqertasussuk, a comparative survey of the historic distribution, density and availability of the living resources in the area is undertaken. This resource model is then evaluated against the paleo-environmental data. Also comparative ethnohistorical and ethnographic data on the exploitation of the living resources in the area is presented. Subsistence and subsistence change at Qeqertasussuk is studied through a comprehensive analysis of the faunal material that consists of more than 200,000 animal bones. Quantitative methods are supplemented by detailed studies of seasonality and age composition of the hunting bag. Forty-three species of animals are represented. Harp seal and ringed seal represent the most important game, but sea birds such as fulmar, Brunnich's guillemot and little auk also play a significant role in the subsistence economy. Fish, especially Atlantic Cod, have been caught and remains of large whales indicate that these animals were utilized, but it can not be decided whether they were actively hunted. Most of the game was taken close by the site, however, finds of caribou indicate that inland caribou hunting was undertaken and that Qeqertasussuk was part of a larger subsistence settlement system. Several species of plants were also utilized. Temporal changes in the composition of the faunal material indicate that significant changes occur in the subsistence at Qeqertasussuk. Four phases are identified: 1. Basecamp period I 2400-2100 BC: A pioneer phase where the site is used as a year-round base camp with more than 90% of the biomass being harvested within an area of approximately 80 km². 2. Basecamp period II 2100-1900 BC: which seems to be the period of most intensive use and where new methods, probably netting of harp seal hunting, are introduced. 3. Hunting camp period 1900-1700 BC: where the site becomes more specialized and more seasonal with a focus on spring/summer hunting for harp seals. 4. High activity period 1700-1400 BC: indications of continued heavy sea mammal hunting. The site was abandoned around 1400 BC. The causes of the abandonment of Qeqertasussuk are discussed and the impact of the general cooling around 1500 BC on key resources such as harp seal and capelin is highlighted. The Hidden Places of England Barbara Vesey, 2000.
