Motivations for physical activity

Pedro Morouço, Aleksandra Maria Rogowska, 2025-03-12 Physical activity engagement is a complex and multifaceted phenomenon driven by a variety of motivations. This Research Topic seeks to advance our understanding of the factors that inspire individuals to participate in physical activity. The collection of papers in this volume aims to shed new light on this topic, offering fresh insights into motivational aspects. With this collection, we hope to offer valuable insights into the complex realm of motivations for physical activity and underscore the significance of individual characteristics, social and cultural factors, and environmental influences in shaping exercise behaviors. Our goal is also to highlight research findings that hold implications for the promotion of physical activity across various populations, including college students, older adults, and those impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic. We welcome submissions from a broad range of topics, including but not limited to: The correlation between self-control and exercise; the motives behind physical activity among university students; the impact of COVID-19 on youth's engagement in physical activity; barriers and facilitations in undertaking physical activity; attitude and motivation to change in health behaviors related to physical activity; the role of preferences and interests in undertaking physical activity; development and validation of tools to measure motivation for physical activity; relationships between motivation for physical activity and core self-evaluations, including self-esteem, self-efficacy, locus of control, neuroticism, and traits of personality and temperament; motivation for physical activity of various social groups, including school children, adolescents, emerging adults, middle-aged adults, older people, individuals with chronic diseases, and people with mental disorders; motivation for physical activity and other pro-health behaviors, e.g., healthy diet, preventive behaviors, taking care of emotional and mental balance, adequate amount of sleep and rest, and anti-health behaviors, e.g., smoking, binge drinking, substance abuse, risky sexual behaviors; the role of social media and applications in electronic devices, e.g., smartphones and watches, in motivating people for physical activity; gender differences in motivation for physical activity and healthy lifestyle; impact of positive emotions, optimism, and hope in shaping motivation for physical activity; affective evaluation in physical activity engagement; effort optimization; motivation and physical activity; executive functions mediating motivation to participate in physical activity neural correlates involved in motivation for physical activity Researchers and scholars are invited to submit their original research to contribute to this Research Topic Additionally we also welcome brief research reports clinical trials systematic reviews reviews mini reviews theoretical articles and methods By delving into the motivations that drive physical activity participation we can advance our understanding of this vital area and inform strategies for promoting and sustaining active lifestyles

There is a major health crisis in this country an epidemic of humongous proportions Currently more than 1 billion adults are overweight and at least 300 million of overweight people are clinically obese Obesity accounts for 2% to 6% of total health care costs in several developed countries it has been recently reported that obesity related diseases are killing more people than smoking The situation is out of control Children are obese and falling ill to diseases related to their weight We are dying earlier with more illness and injury then we have ever seen in history but we have the best medical treatment and a plethora of diet and fitness gadgets and food on the grocery shelves We are harming ourselves This epidemic is happening because we have lost our way in the pursuit of good health In our society of instant gratification we have forgotten how to walk to the store or down the hall to talk to a co worker We are an online nation We seem to do all our business on our laptops phones and in our cars We don t even need to go to the store to buy milk It can all be delivered to our door with the click of a button We never actually need to get off our derrieres We have everything we want at our fingertips Well everything except good health And really isn t that the most important thing of all All the material possessions in the world really don t mean anything if we don t have our health to be able to enjoy it How did we get here We forgot how to walk stretch and move Our bodies are meant to be in motion Look back in history to the hunter gatherer days The men went out to hunt for enough food to sustain their strength for the hunt and feed their families Women had it no easier working the fields taking care of the children and running the villages Some things never change There wasn t much time for anyone to sit around which is probably why Facebook didn t come until much later Our ancestors ate slept and moved in perfect balance to promote a long healthy life Flash forward a few thousand years and we sit We sit at work we sit in our cars and we sit at home on the couch Our bodies have atrophied our muscles are weak our complexions sallow and our energy stays perpetually on empty

The novel begins with Richard Papan, a bright but troubled young man, arriving at Hampden College. Richard is immediately drawn to the group of students who call themselves the Classics Club. The club is led by Henry Winter, a brilliant and charismatic young man. Henry is obsessed with Greek mythology and philosophy, and he quickly draws Richard into his world. The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. Morrow is a complex and mysterious figure, and he seems to be manipulating the students for his own purposes. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is a brilliant and thrilling novel that will keep you wondering until the very end. The novel is a warning tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
