America's Early Montessorians Gerald L. Gutek, Patricia A. Gutek, 2020-09-05 This book traces the early history of the Montessori movement in the United States through the lives and careers of four key American women Anne George Margaret Naumburg Helen Parkhurst and Adelia Pyle Caught up in the Montessori craze sweeping the United States in the Progressive era each played a significant role in the initial transference of Montessori education to America and its implementation from 1910 to 1920 Despite the continuing international recognition of Maria Montessori and the presence of Montessori schools world wide Montessori receives only cursory mention in the history of education especially by recognized historians in the field and in courses in professional education and teacher preparation The authors in seeking to fill this historical void integrate institutional history with analysis of the interplay and tensions between these four women to tell this educational story in an interesting and often dramatic way

Maria Montessori's Erdkinder Ela Eckert, 2022-10 Adolescents need a school that is not a school This claim by Maria Montessori dating from the 1930s is increasingly shared today Consistently based on the developmental needs in adolescence Maria Montessori designed the concept of a Center for Study and Work in the Countryside for students aged 12 18 years which gives young people the opportunity to learn about the basic structures of production trade and services in a manageable transparent and at the same time protected setting through Practice Theory linked experiences The book presents the basics of Maria Montessori s concept and gives through reports with practitioners and interviews with Montessori experts insights into authentic implementations of the Farm school concept and thus into a learning arrangement that allows young people a high degree of responsibility and participation and strengthens their commitment to a sustainable approach to natural resources and a peaceful way of living The book also addresses schools without a Farm school practice and shows ways of approaching crucial components of this authentic and highly topical concept
