A History of Plague in Java, 1911-1942 Maurits Bastiaan Meerwijk, 2022-12-15 In A History of Plague in Java 1911-1942 Maurits Bastiaan Meerwijk demonstrates how the official response to the 1911 outbreak of plague in Malang led to one of the most invasive health interventions in Dutch colonial Indonesia. Eager to combat disease, Dutch physicians and officials integrated the traditional Javanese house into the rat flea-man theory of transmission. Hollow bamboo frames and thatched roofs offered hiding spaces for rats, suggesting a material link between rat plague and human plague. Over the next thirty years, 1.6 million houses were renovated or rebuilt; millions more were subjected to periodic inspection, and countless Javanese were exposed to health messaging seeking to rat-proof their beliefs along with their houses. The transformation of houses, villages, and people was documented in hundreds of photographs and broadcast to overseas audiences as evidence of the ethical nature of colonial rule, proving so effective as propaganda that the rebuilding continued even as better alternatives such as inoculation became available. By systematically reshaping the built environment, the Dutch plague response dramatically expanded colonial oversight and influence in rural Java.

Rats, Bats, and Xenarthrans Britannica Educational Publishing, 2010-10-01 While we may often find them nestled in the corners of our attics or traversing our yards, rodents and bats are more frequently found in nature and originate in a large variety of shapes and sizes. Together, they make up over half of the planet's mammal species. While there are only 29 species of xenarthrans, an ancient line of mammals comprised of sloths, anteaters, and armadillos, they are significant players in various ecosystems as well. This colorful volume considers the features, behaviors, and major species of these three intriguing categories of mammals.

The Oxford Handbook of Modern Indian Literatures Ulka Anjaria, Anjali Nerlekar, 2024 The Oxford Handbook of Modern Indian Literatures is a compilation of scholarship on Indian literature from the 19th century to the present in a range of Indian languages. On one hand, because of reasons associated with national academic structures, publishing resources, and global visibility, English writing gets privileged over all the other linguistic traditions in the scholarship on Indian literatures. On the other hand, within the scholarship on regional language literary productions in Hindi, Marathi, Bengali, etc., the critical works and the surveys focus only on that particular language and therefore frequently suffer from a lack of comparative breadth and/or global access. Both reflect the paradigm of monolingualism within which much literary scholarship on Indian literature takes place. This handbook instead focuses on the multilingual pathways through which modern Indian literature gets constituted It features cutting edge literary criticism from at least seventeen languages and on traditional literary genres as well as more recent ones like graphic novels It shows the deep connections and collaborations across genres languages nations and regions that produce a literature of diverse contact zones generating innovations on form aesthetics and technique Foregrounding themes such as modernity and modernism gender caste diaspora and political resistance the book collects an array of perspectives on this vast topic

Institutional Confinement Peter Davies, Penny Crook, Tim Murray, 2013-09-29 The archaeological assemblage from the Hyde Park Barracks is one of the largest most comprehensive and best preserved collections of artefacts from any 19th century institution in the world Concealed for up to 160 years in the cavities between floorboards and ceilings the assemblage is a unique archaeological record of institutional confinement especially of women The underfloor assemblage dates to the period 1848 to 1886 during which a female Immigration Depot and a Government Asylum for Infirm and Destitute Women occupied the second and third floors of the Barracks Over the years the women discarded and swept beneath the floor thousands of clothing and textile fragments tobacco pipes religious items sewing equipment paper scraps and numerous other objects many of which rarely occur in typical archaeological deposits These items are presented in detail in this book and provide unique insight into the private lives of young female migrants and elderly destitute women most of whom will never be known from historical records The Parting of the Sea Barbara J. Engels,2018-10-03 This is the definitive book on classical cats The cat has played a significant role in history from the earliest times Well known is its role in the religion and art of ancient Egypt no less than its association with witchcraft in the Middle Ages But when did the cat become a domestic companion and worker as well There has been much debate about the position of the cat in ancient Greece and Rome Artistic representations are sometimes ambiguous and its role as a mouse catcher seems often to have been carried out by weasels Yet other evidence clearly suggests that the cat was as important to Greeks and Romans as it is to many modern people This book is the first comprehensive survey of the evidence for cats in Greece and Rome and of their functions and representations in art Donald Engels draws on authors from Aesop to Aristotle on vase painting inscriptions and the plastic arts and on a thorough knowledge of zoology of the cat He also sets the ancient evidence in the wider context of the Egyptian period that preceded it as well as the views of the Church fathers who ushered antiquity into the Middle Ages The Mythical Zoo Boria Sax,2013-11-29 A beautifully illustrated alternate taxonomy of the animal kingdom based on mythology literature art and other cultural realms Charming ForeWord Sacred cows wily serpents fearsome lions elegant swans busy bees and sly foxes all are caricatures of the creatures themselves yet they reflect not only how different cultures see the natural world around them but also how such cultures make use of their native animals In this fun and thought provoking book historian and animal enthusiast Boria Sax argues for a classification of animals that goes beyond the biological to encompass a more meaningful distinction tradition From ants and elephants to tigers and tortoises The Mythical Zoo weaves together a cross cultural tapestry encompassing mythology history art science philosophy and literature The result is a beautifully illustrated masterfully composed love letter to the animal kingdom From the Maluku to Molecules Oliver Kayser,2024-11-28 Natural products are a marvel of evolution Plants are chemical factories and have produced a vast number of highly diverse and interesting natural substances with their extraordinary properties which we humans have been using for centuries to relieve and cure diseases At the latest since the discovery of penicillin natural substances have become an important source of medicines but we know only very few of the presumably many
