Onions Are My Husband Gracia Clark,1995-01-01 In the most comprehensive analysis to date of the world of open air marketplaces of West Africa Gracia Clark studies the market women of Kumasi Ghana in order to understand the key social forces that generate maintain and continually reshape the shifting market dynamics Probably the largest of its kind in West Africa the Kumasi Central Market houses women whose positions vary from hawkers of meals and cheap manufactured goods to powerful wholesalers who control the flow of important staples Drawing on more than four years of field research during which she worked alongside several influential market Queens Clark explains the economic political gender and ethnic complexities involved in the operation of the marketplace and examines the resourcefulness of the market women in surviving the various hazards they routinely encounter from coups d etat to persistent sabotage of their positions from within African Market Women Gracia C. Clark,2010-03-08 A wonderfully evocative compilation of seven life histories from Kumasi Ghana of women Gracia Clark encountered in the course of a lifetime of fieldwork African Studies Review In these lively life stories women market traders from Ghana comment on changing social and economic times and on reasons for their prosperity or decline in fortunes Gracia Clark shows that market women are intimately connected with economic policy on a global scale Many work at the intersection of sophisticated networks of transnational commerce and migration They have dramatic memories of independence and the growth of their new nation including political rivalries price controls and violent raids on the market The experiences of these women give substance to their reflections on globalization capital accumulation colonialism technological change environmental degradation teenage pregnancy marriage children changing gender roles and spirituality Clark s commentary illuminates the complex historical and cultural setting of these deeply revealing lives Shows in direct speech how family kinship marriage and age generation work together in a daily life which is shaped by political demographic cultural and wholly accidental change in people s circumstances Jane Guyer Johns Hopkins University Overall this is an excellent book it will be useful in undergraduate teaching and makes an important contribution to our understanding of the richness and variety of women s lives in West Africa Journal of Africa Clark offers intriguing insights into the lives of seven Akan women traders Recommended Choice "As a husband I will love, lead, and provide" Lambrecht, Isabel,2016-03-11 Improving women s access to land is high on the agricultural policy agenda of both governmental and non governmental agencies Yet the determinants and rationale of gendered access to land are not well understood This paper argues that gender relations are more than the outcomes of negotiations within households It explains the importance of social norms perceptions and formal and informal rules shaping access to land for male and female farmers at four levels 1 the household family 2 the community 3 the state and 4 the market The framework is applied to Ghana Norms on household and family organization and on men s and women s responsibilities and capabilities play a key role in gendered allocation of resources However these norms and perceptions are dynamic and evolve jointly with the development of markets and changes in values of inputs such as labor and land Theoretical models that represent the gendered distribution of assets as the result of intrahousehold bargaining should be revised and extrahousehold factors should be included From a policy perspective laws that ensure gender equality in terms of inheritance and a more gender equitable distribution of property upon divorce can play a key role in improving women s property rights Yet their impact may be limited where customary rights dominate and social norms and rules continue to discriminate according to gender

Northern Ghanaian Women's Artistry Brittany Sheldon, 2023-12-06 Many existing studies present women s artistry as a consistent and enduring element of Indigenous culture emphasizing overarching systems of artistic practices aesthetic goals and symbolic repertoires Brittany Sheldon complicates this image within Northern Ghanaian Women s Artistry Visualizing Culture by emphasizing variations in individual training knowledge experience techniques skills and ideas that inevitably exist among artists and within their communities This book traces women's wall painting known as bambile in northern Ghana. Based on extensive observations and numerous interviews, Sheldon digs into women artists' experiences and knowledge and describes their technical processes. This book delves into the history of bambile, how this tradition has changed over time, and how it is tied to understandings of gender, social hierarchy, cultural identity, and memory. Rather than portraying the tradition as static, Sheldon demonstrates how women adapt their artistry to changing circumstances, including shifting preferences, incentives, markets, and audiences. With its vivid descriptions and detailed discussions, this book brings women artists and their wall paintings to life for readers and, as such, it is relevant to scholars and students of African art history, anthropology, and gender studies.

Women's Labor in the Global Economy Sharon Harley, 2007-06-05 Globalization is not a new phenomenon; women throughout the world have been dealing with the circumstances and consequences of an international economy long before the advent of the transnational corporate conglomerate. However, in a mercenary example of the tried-and-true cliché, the more things change, the more they stay the same: women, particularly those of color, continue to be relegated to the lowest rung of the occupational ladder, where their indispensable contributions to global market capitalism are downplayed or invalidated completely through the perpetuation of stereotypes and the denial of access to better job opportunities and resources. How women of color around the world adapt and challenge the economic, political, and social effects of globalization is the subject of this broad-minded and incisive anthology. From Mexico, Jamaica, Ghana, Zimbabwe, and Sri Lanka to immigrant and non-immigrant communities in the United States, the women documented in these essays are agricultural and factory workers, artists, and entrepreneurs, mothers, and activists. Their stories bear stark witness to how globalization continues to develop new sites and forms of exploitation, while its apparent victims continue to be women, men, and children of color.

Eye to Eye Susan Perry, Celeste Marguerite Schenck, 2001 Focusing on seven crucial debates in the field of gender and development, this compilation shows why development policy must respond to cultural differences and illustrates the rewards of doing so.

Rights and Responsibilities in Rural South Africa Kathleen Rice, 2023-06-20 Rights and Responsibilities in Rural South Africa examines the gendered and generational conflicts surrounding social change in South Africa's rural Eastern Cape, roughly twenty years after the end of Apartheid. In post-Apartheid South Africa, rights-based public discourse and state practices promote liberal, autonomous, and egalitarian notions of personhood, yet widespread unemployment and poverty demand that people rely closely on one another and forge relationships that disrupt the gendered and generational hierarchies framed as traditional and culturally authentic. Kathleen Rice examines the ways these tensions and restructurings lead to uncertainties about how South Africans should live together in their daily lives, with particular implications for understanding and responding to widespread gendered and sexual conflict and violence. Focusing particularly on the women of the village of Mhlambini, Rights and Responsibilities in Rural South Africa offers compelling portraits of how they experience and navigate widespread social and economic change and presents their experiences as a way of understanding how people navigate the moral ambiguities of contemporary South African life Women in Sub-Saharan Africa Iris Berger,E. Frances White,1999-06-22 These four volumes in this major series provide a single source reference to the status of the field of women s history and to ways that the field can be expanded A basic set for all academic libraries Library Journal Academic Newswire Berger and White focus on Sub Saharan Africa tracing women s history from earliest times to the present By exploring their place in social economic political and religious life the authors highlight the changing societal position of women through shifts over time in ideas about gender and the connections between women s public and private spheres
