What Fanon Said Lewis R. Gordon, 2015-04-01 Antiracist racism avows reason is white while emotion and thus supposedly unreason is black Challenging academic adherence to this notion Lewis R Gordon offers a portrait of Martinican turned Algerian revolutionary psychiatrist and philosopher Frantz Fanon as an exemplar of living thought against forms of reason marked by colonialism and racism Working from his own translations of the original French texts Gordon critically engages everything in Fanon from dialectics ethics existentialism and humanism to philosophical anthropology phenomenology and political theory as well as psychiatry and psychoanalysis Gordon takes into account scholars from across the Global South to address controversies around Fanon's writings on gender and sexuality as well as political violence and the social underclass In doing so he confronts the replication of a colonial and racist geography of reason allowing theorists from the Global South to emerge as interlocutors alongside northern ones in a move that exemplifies what Gordon argues Fanon represented in his plea to establish newer and healthier human relationships beyond colonial paradigms Marx's Philosophy of Revolution in Permanence for Our Day Raya Dunayevskaya, 2018-10-02 Marx's Philosophy of Revolution in Permanence for Our Day a selection of writings by the Marxist Humanist philosopher and revolutionary Raya Dunayevskaya brings out the contemporary urgency of Marx's work as a philosophy of revolution in permanence That dialectic permeates the totality of Marx's body of ideas and activities Major themes include Marx's transformation of the Hegelian dialectic the inseparability of Marx's economics humanism and dialectic the battle of ideas with post Marx Marxism beginning with Engels Black liberation internationalism and women's liberation today's burning question of the relationship between spontaneity

Blout,2023-01-26 Successive Iranian leaders have struggled to navigate the fraught political cultural space of media in the Islamic Republic skirting the line between embracing Western communications technologies and rejecting them between condemning social networking sites as foreign treachery and promoting themselves on Facebook How does a regime that originally derived its hegemony from the ability to mass communicate its ideology protect its ideological dominance in a media environment defined by hybridity hyper connectivity and near constant change More broadly what is the role of media in the construction and maintenance of power in Iran This book addresses these questions by examining the institutions policies and discourses of two political regimes over the course of nearly eight decades Drawing from over 3 000 primary source documents and digital artifacts in Persian and English including formerly classified material hidden deep in the archives this book offers a history of media in Iran across political regimes and media paradigms from the public s first encounter with mass communication in the 1940s to the dawn of digital media in the 1990s to internet and mobile telephony today At the same time the book trains a keen eye on contemporary politics With foundations in sociology and political science Media and Power in Modern Iran offers trenchant insight into the present ruling establishment a political regime born from what has become known as the first televised revolution

Africana Critical Theory Reiland Rabaka,2009-01-16 Building on and going far beyond W E B Du Bois and the Problems of the Twenty First Century and Du Bois s Dialectics Reiland Rabaka s Africana Critical Theory innovatively identifies and analyzes continental and diasporan African contributions to classical and contemporary critical theory This book represents a climatic critical theoretical clincher that cogently demonstrates how Du Bois s rarely discussed dialectical thought interdisciplinarity intellectual history making radical political activism and world historical multiple liberation movement leadership helped to inaugurate a distinct Africana tradition of critical theory With chapters on W E B Du Bois C L R James Negritude Aime Cesaire and Leopold Senghor Frantz Fanon and Amilcar Cabral Africana Critical Theory endeavors to accessibly offer contemporary critical theorists an intellectual archaeology of the Africana tradition of critical theory and a much needed dialectical deconstruction and reconstruction of black radical politics These six seminal figures collective thought and texts clearly cuts across several disciplines and therefore closes the chasm between Africana Studies and critical theory constantly demanding that intellectuals not simply think deep thoughts develop new theories and theoretically support radical politics but be and constantly become political activists social organizers and cultural workers that is folk the Italian critical theorist Antonio Gramsci referred to as organic intellectuals In this sense then the series of studies gathered in Africana Critical Theory contribute not only to African Studies African American Studies Caribbean Studies Cultural Studies Gender Studies and Postcolonial Studies but also to contemporary critical theoretical discourse across an amazingly wide range of traditional disciplines and radical political activism outside of and in many instances absolutely against Europe s ivory towers and the absurdities of the American academe

International Relations and Non-Western Thought Robbie Shilliam,2010-09-13

International Relations as a discipline tends to focus upon European and Western canons of modern social and political thought. Alternatively, this book explores the global imperial and colonial context within which knowledge of modernity has been developed. The chapters sketch out the historical depth and contemporary significance of non-Western thought on modernity as well as the rich diversity of its individuals, groups, movements, and traditions. The contributors theoretically and substantively engage with non-Western thought in ways that refuse to render it exotic, superfluous, or derivative of the orthodox Western canon of social and political thought. Taken as a whole, the book provides deep insights into the contested nature of a global modernity shaped so fundamentally by Western colonialism and imperialism. Now as ever, these insights are desperately needed for a discipline that is so closely implicated in Western foreign policy making and yet retains such a myopic horizon of inquiry. This work provides a significant contribution to the field and will be of great interest to all scholars of politics, political theory, and international relations theory.

Philosophy of African American Studies Stephen Ferguson, 2015-09-16 In this ground-breaking book, Stephen C. Ferguson addresses a seminal question that is too often ignored: What should be the philosophical basis for African American studies? The volume explores philosophical issues and problems in their relationship to Black studies. Ferguson shows that philosophy is not a sterile intellectual pursuit but a critical tool to gathering knowledge about the Black experience. Cultural idealism in various forms has become enormously influential as a framework for Black studies. Ferguson takes on the task of demonstrating how a Marxist philosophical perspective offers a productive and fruitful way of overcoming the limitations of idealism. Focusing on the hugely popular Afrocentric school of thought, this book's engaging discussion shows that the foundational arguments of cultural idealism are based on a series of analytical and historical misapprehensions. In turn, Ferguson argues for the centrality of the Black working class, both men and women, to Black Studies.

Global South-North Dichotomies in Higher Education Vander Tavares, 2025-09-26 Revisiting foundational concepts and practices that have long sustained global divisions and hierarchies, this seminal volume challenges Global South-North dichotomies in higher education by exploring the possibilities and limitations of such socio-political dichotomies from multiple perspectives. Foregrounding a diversity of international voices from countries and territories such as Brazil, China, Denmark, India, New Caledonia, Vanuatu, Zimbabwe, and others, this book presents conceptual reflections and empirical studies on strategies, initiatives, and policies aimed at enhancing collaboration between South-North higher education contexts. Chapters engage critically with traditional concepts and practices such as academic conferences, research, and teaching methodologies, academic publishing, and writing, and epistemic frameworks that have helped maintain South-North educational dichotomies while clearly articulating nuanced perspectives on the complexities associated with such South-North dichotomies. Innately forward-looking in approach, chapters discuss micro, macro, and potentially radical transformative practices that encourage dialogue and reimagine the academic environment to further challenge existing power differentials, drawing on Indigenous, local, and trans-local epistemologies. Ultimately offering critical perspectives from real world global contexts on how to address systemic inequalities and promote dialogue this book will be of relevance to scholars researchers and students in the fields of higher education international and comparative education teacher education and multicultural education Policy makers working in ethnic and cultural studies development and internationalization may also benefit from this volume

The Third World in the Global 1960s Samantha Christiansen,Zachary A. Scarlett,2013 Decades after the massive student protest movements that consumed much of the world the 1960s remain a significant subject of scholarly inquiry While important work has been done regarding radical activism in the United States and Western Europe events in what is today known as the Global South Asia Africa and Latin America have yet to receive the attention they deserve This volume inserts the Third World into the study of the 1960s by examining the local and international articulations of youth protest in various geographical social and cultural arenas Rejecting the notion that the Third World existed on the periphery it situates the events of the 1960s in a more inclusive context building a richer more nuanced understanding of the era that better reflects the dynamism of the period
