Current Approaches to Metaphor Analysis in Discourse Ignasi Navarro i Ferrando, 2019-09-02 This volume takes up the challenge of surveying the present state of a variety of approaches to the identification analysis and interpretation of metaphor across communication channels situational contexts genres and social spheres It reflects three foremost trends of present metaphor research namely the communicative approach the cognitive modelling approach and the multimodality approach These trends are considered as areas of research emerging on the ground of the Conceptual Metaphor Theory initiated by Lakoff The book intends to show their concomitances as well as mark their diversifying paths The aim is to bring about and make apparent the many connections among assumingly different trends stemming from CMT Whereas discrepancies between communicative and conceptual perspectives might seem irredeemable the book emphasizes and claims that the background framework of CMT provides a solid foundation for collaboration and mutual influence Consequently the analysis of metaphor usage in context may provide insights for cognitive modelling proposals The analysis of cognitive configuration of conceptual domains may in turn illuminate our understanding of communicative decisions in discourse The integration of multimodal metaphor analysis puts forward the idea that diverse modal manifestations of metaphor reveal the symbiosis between communicative and cognitive stances The various subject areas and methodologies illuminate the scene of current research in the field The poignant contributions open far reaching avenues into the realm of human thought and discourse general as well as the differences that characterize distinct cultures The work investigates moral cognition at the cultural level as reflected in language based on linguistic evidence from both English and Chinese and to a limited extent multimodal evidence from the corresponding cultures The moral metaphor system is taken to consist of three major subsystems referred to as physical visual and spatial These subsystems are clusters of conceptual metaphors whose source concepts are from domains of embodied experiences in the physical world and which are formulated in contrastive categories with bipolar values for the target concepts of moral and immoral The study is characterized by two keywords system and systematicity The former refers to the fact that metaphors conceptual and linguistic are connected within networks and the latter to the need for those metaphors to be studied in such networks Summary of The Bezos Blueprint by Carmine

Critical Discourse Studies and Technology Ian Roderick, 2016-06-16 Making a new contribution to the developing field of multimodal critical discourse studies Ian Roderick's book demonstrates how technologies that tend to be widely represented as innovative or as simple pragmatic solutions are always anchored in power relations and are therefore deeply ideological A series of examples analysing technologies such as robotics smart phones or bio medicine their functioning and uses as well as their representations in the media show that these are embedded within discourses that tell us about social and power relations identities and political values The book takes a tour of everyday technologies and how they are represented in different settings A Disney theme park attraction showing how technology has improved family life makes many assumptions about what is natural in terms of interpersonal relations pleasure and satisfaction Advertisements that represent robot workers inform us about the kinds of worker management relations now characterising work places Roderick looks at the way that technologies while often represented as divorced from their production and maintenance as objects of wonder need to be seen within a fabric of social relations that tends to be suppressed from how we see them as part of a wider technological fetishism Engaging with existing theories of technology the book argues that we must take a more interdisciplinary approach to avoid the pitfalls of social constructivism and technological determinism Our experiences of technologies are shaped through the relationship between knowledge practices and institutional forms
