Mining in World History Martin Lynch, 2004-08-02 This book deals with the history of mining and smelting from the Renaissance to the present Martin Lynch opens with the invention sometime before 1453 of a revolutionary technique for separating silver from copper It was this invention which brought back to life the rich copper silver mines of central Europe in the process making brass cannon and silver coin available to the ambitious Habsburg emperors thereby underpinning their quest for European domination Lynch also discusses the Industrial Revolution and the far reaching changes to mining and smelting brought about by the steam engine the era of the gold rushes the massive mineral developments and technological leaps forward which took place in the USA and South Africa at the end of the 19th century and finally the spread of mass metal production techniques amid the violent struggles of the 20th century In an engaging concise and fast paced text he presents the interplay of personalities politics and technology that have shaped the metallurgical industries over the last 500 years

Navies in Modern World History Lawrence Sondhaus, 2004-05-04 Navies in Modern World History traces the role of navies in world history from the early nineteenth century through both World Wars to the onset of the twenty first century Lawrence Sondhaus examines the navies of Britain France Germany the United States Japan Brazil Chile and the Soviet Union demonstrating the variety of ways in which these countries have made decisive use of naval power and the challenges these navies faced when assembling equipment and stores training sailors and undertaking various missions and shows in what ways the results helped change the course of modern world history This book also deals with aircraft carrier design and naval aviation in the second half of the twentieth century and the leading role of navies and shipbuilders in key technological innovations of the nineteenth century and early twentieth including advances in steam power armour guns and torpedoes Today technological break throughs are centred around naval stealth and maritime propulsion systems Special attention is devoted to the evolving state of naval technology showing how the relative industrial capabilities of seafaring countries have been reflected in their maritime building programmes providing an important link between the evolution of modern national fleets and the broader history of the period Editeur

The Mongol Conquests in World History Timothy May, 2013-02-15 The Mongol Empire can be seen as marking the beginning of the modern age and of globalization as well While communications between the extremes of Eurasia existed prior to the Mongols they were infrequent and often through intermediaries As this new book by Timothy May shows the rise of the Mongol Empire changed everything through their conquests the Mongols swept away dozens of empires and kingdoms and replaced them with the largest contiguous empire in history While the Mongols were an extremely destructive force in the premodern world the Mongol Empire had stabilizing effects on the social cultural and economic life of the inhabitants of the vast territory allowing merchants and missionaries to transverse Eurasia The Mongol Conquests in World History examines the many ways in which the conquests were a catalyst for change including changes and advancements in warfare food culture and scientific knowledge Even as Mongol power declined the memory of the Empire fired the collective imagination of the region into far reaching endeavors such as the desire for luxury goods and spices that launched Columbus's voyage and the innovations in art that were manifested in the masterpieces of the Renaissance This fascinating book offers comprehensive coverage of the entire empire rather than a more regional approach and provides an extensive survey of the legacy of the Mongol Empire A History of Reading Steven R. Fischer, 2004 Takes in a wonderful diversity of things Nature Now available in paperback this final volume in the trilogy Language Writing Reading traces the complete story of reading from the time when symbols first acquired meaning through to the electronic texts of the digital age Landscape and History since 1500 Ian D. Whyte, 2004-03-03

Landscape and History explores a complex relationship over the past five centuries The book is international and interdisciplinary in scope drawing on material from social economic and cultural history as well as from geography archaeology cultural geography planning and landscape history In recent years as the author points out there has been increasing interest in and concern for many aspects of landscape within British European and wider contexts This has included the study of the history development and changes in our perception of landscape as well as research into the links between past landscapes and political ideologies economic and social structures cartography art and literature There is also considerable concern at present with the need to evaluate and classify historic landscapes and to develop policies for their conservation and management in relation to their scenic heritage and recreational value This is manifest not only in the designation of particularly valued areas with enhanced protection from planning developments such as national parks and world heritage sites but in the countryside more generally Further Ian D Whyte argues changes in European Union policies relating to agriculture with a greater concern for the protection and sustainable management of rural landscapes are likely to be of major importance in relation to the themes of continuity and change in the landscapes of Britain and Europe

Cinemas of the World James Chapman, 2004-06-03 The cinema has been the pre eminent popular art form of the 20th century In Cinemas of the World James Chapman examines the relationship between film and society in the modern world film as entertainment medium film as a reflection of national cultures and preoccupations film as an instrument of propaganda He also explores two interrelated issues that have recurred throughout the history of cinema the economic and cultural hegemony of Hollywood on the one hand and on the other the attempts of film makers elsewhere to establish indigenous national cinemas drawing on their own cultures and societies Chapman examines the rise to dominance of Hollywood cinema in the silent and early sound periods He discusses the characteristic themes of American movies from the Depression to the end of the Cold War especially those found in the western and film noir genres that are often used as vehicles for exploring issues central to us society and politics He looks at national cinemas in various European countries in the period between the end of the First World War and the end of the Second which all exhibit the formal and aesthetic properties of modernism The emergence of the so called new cinemas of Europe and the wider world since 1960 are also
