Mining Success Keys Achieving Dream:

Mining for Success Kelissa Bass,2015-12-05 Kelissa Bass is making it very clear that her motivation to succeed is by focusing on your why and not the how Feeling like a victim was never a friend to her Changing the story you tell yourself is key while working to inspire others to do the same Kelissa wrote Mining for Success because she had the personal experience of actually having to use the 7 keys and found that they worked and was moved to share what those keys were with others who may be finding it hard to get results Surprised at how quick the results started happening in her life She only could credit the hard work of changing her mental dialogue even during the tough times My Country, Mine Country Benedict Scambary,2013-05-01 Agreements between the mining industry and Indigenous people are not creating sustainable economic futures for Indigenous people and this demands consideration of alternate forms of economic engagement in order to realise such futures Within the context of three mining agreements in north Australia this study considers Indigenous livelihood aspirations and their intersection with sustainable development agendas The three agreements are the Yandi Land Use Agreement in the Central Pilbara in Western Australia the Ranger Uranium Mine Agreement in the Kakadu region of the Northern Territory and the Gulf Communities Agreement in relation to the Century zinc mine in the southern Gulf of Carpentaria in Queensland Recent shifts in Indigenous policy in Australia seek to de emphasise the cultural behaviour or imperatives of Indigenous people in undertaking economic action in favour of a mainstream conventional approach to economic development Concepts of value identity and community are key elements in the tension between culture and economics that exists in the Indigenous policy environment Whilst significant diversity exists within the Indigenous polity Indigenous aspirations for the future typically emphasise a desire for alternate forms of economic engagement that combine elements of the mainstream economy with the maintenance and enhancement of Indigenous institutions and livelihood activities Such aspirations reflect ongoing and dynamic responses to modernity and typically concern the interrelated issues of access to and management of country the maintenance of Indigenous institutions associated with family and kin access to resources such as cash and vehicles the establishment of robust representative organisations and are integrally linked to the derivation of both symbolic and economic value of livelihood pursuits The Keys to Success in Business Angela Preston,2016-12-15 When I sat down and started writing my first book Opening Doors I honestly didnt have a clue about what I was doing but what I did know was how important it was to get my message out to as many people as possible and inspire them to be the best versions of themselves they could possibly be No matter what situation you find yourself in or the background in which you came from there is always a light at the end of the tunnel You just have to keep searching and never give up In all of the adversity I have found myself in over the years there were numerous times I felt like giving up and throwing the towel in but always in the back of my mind was what I had to offer and how others can benefit from my experiences as well as learn from what I had put in place to help me overcome the many trials and tribulations I found myself in I didn't know how to put a book together but I had my memories I just had to work out how to put them down on paper so others would not just want to read my book but also want to talk about how it had changed their life That was the reason for writing the book in the beginning I soon realized after writing the first few pages that it could help others If I could influence one person to change their life after reading my book I had done a whole lot more than become an author isn't it right Whatever we get out of this life we should put back to help others
