Description in Literature and Other Media ,2007-01-01 In contrast to narrative description is a much less researched phenomenon and where it so far has found attention at all scholars have almost always discussed it with fiction in mind The all but exclusive concentration on literature has hitherto obscured the fact that description transcends literature and indeed the verbal media in general and is not only a transgeneric but also a transmedial phenomenon that can be found in many other media and arts This book is a pioneering interdisciplinary study of description since it for the first time undertakes to close this research lacuna by highlighting description and its relevance with reference to a wide spectrum of arts and media The volume opens with a detailed introductory essay which aims at clarifying the descriptive as a basic semiotic form of organizing signs from a theoretical perspective but also provides a first overview of the uses of description as well as its problematics in fiction painting and instrumental music In the main part of the book nine contributions by scholars from various disciplines explore description in individual media and different cultural epochs The first section of the book is dedicated to literature and related partly verbal media and includes a typological and historical survey of description in fiction as well as discussions of its occurrence in poetry nature writing radioliterature and film The second part deals with the purely visual media and ranges from a presentation of the descriptive techniques used in D rer s graphic reproductions to general reflections on the descriptive in the visual arts as well as in photography A third section on description in music provides a perspective on yet another medium The volume which is the second one in the series Studies in Intermediality is of relevance to students and scholars from various fields intermedial studies literary and film studies history of art and musicology

Rethinking Media, Religion, and Culture Stewart M. Hoover,Knut Lundby,1997-01-31 The growing connections between media culture and religion are increasingly evident in contemporary society but until now have rarely been theoretically linked The contributors to this volume effectively combine these areas into a coherent whole The issues they examine include the decline of religious institutions during the late twentieth century the increasing autonomy and individualized practice of religion and the surge of media and media based icons that are often imbued with religious qualities and the ensuing effect on cultural practices

Open Justice Joseph Jaconelli,2002 It has long been a fundamental norm of civilized legal systems that the administration of justice is conducted in full view of the public This is regarded as particularly important in criminal cases where the accused is traditionally viewed as possessing the right to a public trial The rise of the modern media especially television has created the possibility of a global audience for high profile cases Increasingly however it is seen that the open conduct of legal proceedings is prejudicial to important values such as the privacy of parties rehabilitative considerations national security commercial secrecy and the need to safeguard witnesses and jurors from intimidation In this topical new study Joseph Jaconelli explores these issues and offers a critical examination in the context of English Law of the values served by open justice and the tensions that exist between it and other important interests

The Media War on Black Male Youth in Urban Education Darius Prier, 2017-03-27 News media film and the music industry have become powerful sources of misrepresentation of Black male life in the social imagination of white society The pedagogy of popular culture has important implications for educators and youth advocates who desire to challenge the myths and distortions that ultimately harm youth

This volume raises awareness of the media war on Black male youth in popular culture and the impact this image battle has on the discriminatory treatment of the population in urban educational settings Citing the recent controversial deaths of Trayvon Martin and Jordan Davis the portrayal of black males in contemporary films and the locus of hip hop masculinities this volume offers a unique framework for analyzing how contemporary image making practices affect Black male youth in urban education It also offers ethical considerations for educators in their critique consumption and reading of Black male subjectivity in media and provides avenues for practical applications of critical media literacy on the ground Dead Boys

Walking Kofi Quaye, General Davis, 2012-06-18 It doesn't take much to become a dead boy walking in America or elsewhere and on a collision course with early death or some other form of youth related violence For a young African American named Trayvon Martin all it took was to run into a young white wanna be police packing a gun and willing to use it He was shot to death in Sanford Florida in a tragic case which exploded into the headlines in March 2012 For others it is driving a nice car in a white neighborhood in a major American city the way it happened to Syracuse native Johnnie Gamage in Pittsburgh He was shot and killed by Pittsburgh police He was driving a Jaguar owned by his uncle Ray Seals formerly of Pittsburgh Steelers football team For Stanley Tookie Williams popular for all the wrong reasons yet nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize it is for crimes he was charged with and executed as the leader of the CRIPS gang in Los Angeles For many others too many list to list here it is being at the wrong place at the wrong time when a drive by shooting occurs For many more around the globe you are a dead boy walking when you are born in a war torn country and are forced into an army as a child soldier
