Mister Glovers Groton History Vermont:

Mister Glover's Groton Waldo F. Glover, 1978 Mister Glover's Groton Waldo Glover, 2015-12-08 On a certain day probably in the year 1782 the sound of an axe rang through a tract of primeval forest Minutes passed while the hills around echoed the measured strokes of that axe Came a moment of silence then the crash of a fallen tree Perhaps no human ears but the woodchopper s heard the ring of the axe the echo from the hills or the fall of the tree To the great world outside the event was as nothing but to the man with the axe it was very important for on this plot of ground he would presently build a log cabin and hither bring his young wife and child where together they would experience the mingled joy and grief of pioneer family life Furthermore he would be known as the first settler of this new township which two years earlier had been granted by the Republic of Vermont to one Thomas Butterfield and associates and had been named Groton This young man with the axe was neither wealthy nor even well to do He had come up from an older settlement some miles away where a rapid increase in population had raised land value to this new town of virgin forest and cheaper land offering fair challenge to a young man of brain brawn and good courage Moreover the greater number of his fellow settlers who followed him during the next two decades were as lacking in wealth as he But virtually all of them men and women alike were intelligent human beings endowed with physical stamina They cleared away forests built log cabins tilled rich fields set wheels of industry in motion and brought about the beginnings of a church and school system From these founding fathers and mothers and from other families who became residents through succeeding years have come many descendants some of whom remained in the town of their fathers and have borne names which time has made familiar while many others cast their lot elsewhere Most of these people whether pioneers or descendants have been worthy men and women who have done well their part in the development of community state and nation This book tells the story of the town thus begun and preserves the record of many of its families It has been prepared especially for the people of Groton who are interested in preserving a record of past years and for those of Groton birth or descent who although scattered the wide earth over still think of the old Vermont town as home Something Abides: Discovering the Civil War in Today's Vermont Howard Coffin, 2013-05-06 Experience Civil War historic sites and small towns that can be found nowhere else in America Today throughout Vermont it is possible to identify hundreds and hundreds of Civil War related sites Throughout Vermont are soldier homes halls where war meetings encouraged enlistments churches where soldier funerals were held and abolitionists spoke monuments to those who served hospital sites and homes where women gathered to make items for the soldiers The Vermont State House is a virtual Civil War museum A building survives in Woodstock where the war was administered Cemeteries hold the gravestones of many of the 34 000 who fought A field even exists where in 1803 a Quaker preacher heard a voice from above fortell a bloody war over slavery With the help of this book Civil War sites can be located as in no other state taking the reader through the beautiful Vermont landscape of hill farms and small towns that looks more like the Civil War era than that of any other state
