

The instruments, gauges and warning lights, which are conveniently grouped in the instrument clusters on the dash, are designed to give the operator important information on the car's performance.

GOOD DRIVING PRACTICE: A good driver familiarizes himself with the controls of any automobile BEFORE operating it.

Brake Warning Indicator

A brake system warning light is located in the left instrument cluster. The warning light glows red to indicate to the operator that the parking brake has not been fully released. It also is designed to glow red while braking in the event of broken brake lines, major brake fluid loss, air in the brake lines or a pressure deviation between the front and the rear wheel brake lines. If this happens, it may mean that braking effectiveness is impaired. It will be possible to bring the vehicle to a stop, but depending on the severity of the malfunction, greater pedal force and pedal travel may be required and stopping distance may be increased. The cause should be determined and any problem corrected as soon as possible. To make sure the brake warning light is not burned out, set the parking brake and start the engine. If the light does not come on, have your Oldsmobile Dealer correct the trouble as soon as possible.

NOTE: This warning light is not a substitute for visual checking of the fluid level in the master cylinder, which is a normal maintenance item at intervals specified on page 52.

Charging System Indicator

A red light "GEN" will appear with the ignition key in the "ON" position and the engine not running. This light lets you know the warning signal is operational. Should the light fail to come on, see your Oldsmobile Dealer. When the engine is started, the warning light should go out. In certain types of malfunction, the red light will come on with the ignition "OFF" or with the engine running. Should this happen, see your Oldsmobile Dealer. The warning light will not indicate all types of charging malfunctions. Therefore, if the starting motor turns the engine slower than normal, have the cause determined promptly.

Engine Oil Pressure Indicator

The red light "OIL" will appear when the ignition is turned "ON," informing you that the indicator light is operational. When the engine starts and oil pressure builds up, the light will go out. This signal light is an oil pressure indicator — not an oil level gauge. Should the light go on while the engine is running, stop the engine immediately and have the cause determined and corrected. Driving the car with low pressure can cause extensive engine damage.
