One Art Elizabeth Bishop, 2015-01-13 These letters

funny touching and occasionally harrowing remind us that this great poet was a remarkable woman as well Don't miss them Michael Dirda The Washington Post Book World Robert Lowell once remarked When Elizabeth Bishop's letters are published as they will be she will be recognized as not only one of the best but one of the most prolific writers of our century One Art is the magnificent confirmation of Lowell's prediction From several thousand letters written by Bishop over fifty years from 1928 when she was seventeen to the day of her death in Boston in 1979 Robert Giroux the poet's longtime friend and editor has selected over five hundred missives for this volume In a way the letters comprise Bishop's autobiography and Giroux has greatly enhanced them with his own detailed candid and highly informative introduction One Art takes us behind Bishop's formal sophistication and reserve fully displaying the gift for friendship the striving for perfection and the passionate questing rigorous spirit that made her a great artist A remarkable collection True magic Richard Locke The Wall Street Journal One Art does not quite substitute for an autobiography there are too many important facts missing Instead it stands as a sort of golden treasury to be gone through in one enthralled reading and then browsed in ever after J D McClatchy The New York Times Book Review The publication of Elizabeth Bishop's selected letters is a historic event Let us celebrate the appearance of this extraordinary this quite exceptional and wonderful work Tom Paulin The Times Literary Supplement

A History of Irish Autobiography Liam Harte, 2018-03-01 A History of Irish Autobiography is the first ever critical survey of autobiographical self representation in Ireland from its recoverable beginnings to the twenty first century The book draws on a wealth of original scholarship by leading experts to provide an authoritative examination of autobiographical writing in the English and Irish languages Beginning with a comprehensive overview of autobiography theory and criticism in Ireland the History guides the reader through seventeen centuries of Irish achievement in autobiography a category that incorporates diverse literary forms from religious tracts and travelogues to letters diaries and online journals This ambitious book is rich in insight Chapters are structured around key subgenres themes texts and practitioners each featuring a guide to recommended further reading The volume's extensive coverage is complemented by a detailed chronology of Irish autobiography from the fifth century to the contemporary era the first of its kind to be published Elizabeth Bishop at Work Eleanor Cook, 2016 Elizabeth Bishop is now recognized as a major twentieth century poet She is routinely praised for her mastery of her art yet all too often the art itself is ignored Terms like quiet perfection abound but are seldom demonstrated very far This book looks in detail at how she works It is meant for both readers and writers as well as teachers at every level from beginning writers to more advanced from ordinary readers of poetry to specialists Prose writers and readers should also find useful guidelines In showing exactly how Bishop's poems work it suggests how our own writing and reading might learn from her She has been compared to Vermeer and as with his paintings so with her poems They can create small worlds where every detail matters Elizabeth Bishop at Work starts with two case studies from her earliest writing then proceeds chronologically It shows how she shapes each collection putting paid to any idea that her collections well over a thousand pages and placed before the public a new Bishop whose complexity was previously familiar to only a small circle of scholars and devoted readers This collection of essays by many of the leading figures in Bishop studies provides a deep and multifaceted account of the impact of these new editions and how they both enlarge and complicate our understanding of Bishop as a cultural icon Contributors Charles Berger Southern Illinois University Edwardsville Jacqueline Vaught Brogan University of Notre Dame Angus Cleghorn Seneca College Jonathan Ellis University of Sheffield Richard Flynn Georgia Southern University Lorrie Goldensohn Jeffrey Gray Seton Hall University Bethany Hicok Westminster College George Lensing University of North Carolina Carmen L Oliveira Barbara Page Vassar College Christina Pugh University of Illinois at Chicago Francesco Rognoni Catholic University in Milan Peggy Samuels Drew University Lloyd Schwartz University of Massachusetts Boston Thomas Travisano Hartwick College Heather Treseler Worcester State University Gillian White University of Michigan

White Women Writing White Renee R. Curry, 2000-05-30 Just as the cultural background of readers shapes how they respond to texts the context in which writers live shapes what they write When a context is dominant within a culture the effects of that context upon an author may be taken for granted and thus overlooked Race is a powerful factor in shaping literary works Literature by black writers for example often reflects the experiences of African Americans At the same time though perhaps less obviously literature by white writers may similarly reflect the experience of being white This book argues that H D Elizabeth Bishop and Sylvia Plath wrote from an unproclaimed dominant white perspective that becomes evident in their poetry Loosely delineated writing white constitutes writing authored from an acknowledged or unacknowledged white perspective writing that implies or explicitly delivers the concept of whiteness to a text writing that remains unconcerned with white racial politics internal and external to the text and writing that uses the word white to maintain ideological systems of mastery and dichotomy This book examines numerous poems in terms of whiteness Each chapter places one poet in the larger context of historical and cultural racial events prevalent during the time of her writing and explores the particular poems created and published during that period
