How Policies Make Citizens Andrea Louise Campbell, 2011-10-16 Some groups participate in politics more than others Why And does it matter for policy outcomes In this richly detailed and fluidly written book Andrea Campbell argues that democratic participation and public policy powerfully reinforce each other Through a case study of senior citizens in the United States and their political activity around Social Security she shows how highly participatory groups get their policy preferences fulfilled and how public policy itself helps create political inequality Using a wealth of unique survey and historical data Campbell shows how the development of Social Security helped transform seniors from the most beleaguered to the most politically active age group Thus empowered seniors actively defend their programs from proposed threats shaping policy outcomes The participatory effects are strongest for low income seniors who are most dependent on Social Security The program thus reduces political inequality within the senior population a laudable effect while increasing inequality between seniors and younger citizens A brief look across policies shows that program effects are not always positive Welfare recipients are even less participatory than their modest socioeconomic backgrounds would imply because of the demeaning and disenfranchising process of proving eligibility Campbell concludes that program design profoundly shapes the nature of democratic citizenship And proposed policies such as Social Security privatization must be evaluated for both their economic and political effects because the very quality of democratic government is influenced by the kinds of policies it chooses

Independence and Economic Security in Old Age Frank Denton, 2011-11-01

As boomers move towards retirement the phenomenon of population aging has become a much publicized issue Independence and Economic Security in Old Age focuses on the economic and social implications of aging at the level of the individual and of society as a whole The product of a three year research program the book contains chapters by recognized experts in the fields of economics and econometrics sociology social work medicine epidemiology gerontology and nursing The book first looks at some basic demographic issues including the definition of old the changing age distribution of the population and the demographic outlook for the next several decades It then moves into the area of family relations health and economic security The concept of independence among the elderly is examined and the degree of preparedness for old age by different elderly or soon to be elderly cohorts is considered The measurable social contributions of the elderly are also discussed in juxtaposition with the benefits they receive The book continues with an examination of the saving behaviour of the elderly the appropriateness of the Consumer Price Index as a measure of inflation the incomes of older women and how the tax transfer system affects the incentives of Canadians to save for retirement Comprehensive and innovative in its consideration of the issues and implications of aging this book will be a valuable resource for specialists and non specialists interested in issues of population aging for students of gerontology economics sociology health studies social work and women s studies and for social planners and policy makers

One Nation, Underprivileged Mark Robert Rank, 2004-04-01 Despite its enormous wealth the United States leads the industrialized world in poverty One Nation Underprivileged unravels this disturbing paradox by offering a unique and radically different understanding of American poverty It debunks many of our most common myths about the poor while at the same time provides a powerful new framework for addressing this enormous social and economic problem Mark Robert Rank vividly shows that the fundamental causes of poverty are to be found in our economic structure and political policy failures rather than individual shortcomings or attitudes He establishes for the first time that a significant percentage of Americans will experience poverty during their adult lifetimes and firmly demonstrates that poverty is an issue of vital national concern Ultimately Rank provides us with a new paradigm for understanding poverty and outlines an innovative set of strategies that will reduce American poverty One Nation Underprivileged represents a profound starting point for rekindling a national focus upon Americas most vexing social and economic problem The Oxford Handbook of Urban Planning Randall Crane, Rachel Weber, 2015 Why plan How and what do we plan Who plans for whom These three questions are then applied across three major topics in planning States Markets and the Provision of Social Goods The Methods and Substance of Planning and Agency Implementation and Decision Making Beyond Nostalgia Ruth E. Ray, 2000 For three years Ruth E Ray visited and participated in eight writing groups at six senior centers in inner city and suburban Detroit looking for ways in which the elderly fashion their memories through personal narrative Her innovative book involves the reader in the construction of life stories as a richly rewarding and highly social process that often reveals the types of relationships that dominate the lives of group members the majority of whom are women Because Ray wrote and responded herself and shares her anxiety and triumph in presenting her writing to women old enough to be her mother some of a different race and class Beyond Nostalgia is an excellent primer for professionals working with diverse groups in a variety of settings It is also an important contribution to the emerging field of feminist gerontology Ray s book demonstrates its own thesis that the presentation and negotiation of life stories in writing groups initiates change and personal growth among older people Drawing on personal observations the give and take of meeting conversations lengthy interviews and the life stories themselves Ray tells a story of adult development through personal narrative She recreates the group process through which age peers begin to articulate what life means both individually and collectively The writing groups of older adults that Ray studied challenged their members to consider not just cultural influences but generational effects on the evolving content and structure of their life stories Age Ray argues has been largely ignored by feminists and she makes a strong case for the need to learn how women make meaning of their lives across the life span As an important document and analysis of that process Beyond Nostalgia should appeal to academics and practitioners in women s studies composition studies gerontology developmental psychology sociology social work and linguistics and to anyone who works with older people

Gender and Ageing Theresa W. Devasahayam, 2014-08-20 This book examines common themes related to gender and ageing in countries in Southeast Asia Derived from quantitative or qualitative methods of data collection and analysis the chapters reveal how ageing has become tempered by globalization cultural values family structures women s emancipation and empowerment social networks government policies and religion The chapters are concerned primarily with the following questions related to gender and ageing a how do women and men experience old age b do women and men have different means of coping financially and socially in their old age c does having engaged in wage work for longer periods of time serve as an advantage to older men in contrast to older women d does a woman s primary role as caregiver serve to disadvantage her in old age e what kinds of identities have older women and men constructed for themselves f do women and men prepare for ageing differently and has this preparation been mediated by educational levels g does having a higher level of education make a difference to how one experiences ageing h how does class shape the way women and men cope in old age and i what does it mean to be a single older person who has either lost a spouse through death or has never been married Because the book employs a cross country analysis readers gain an understanding of contemporary emergent trends not only in each of the countries but also in Southeast Asia as a whole Wherever relevant some chapters have also identified similarities in trends on gender and ageing between countries in the Western hemisphere and those in Southeast Asia to highlight broader patterns across the world The share of the elderly in Southeast Asia s population is steadily rising and it is increasingly important to understand and plan for the implications of this trend While in some aspects the situation of older women and men in the region is similar their life experiences of education marriage child raising work and social networks differ and this makes for different issues as they grow older Moreover a much higher proportion of elderly women than men face old age without a spouse This book makes a major contribution to understanding the issues arising from ageing trends in Southeast Asia Individual chapters in the book deal authoritatively with almost every country in the region and are written by noted experts on the subject The book will be an essential reading for anyone wishing to understand ageing issues in Southeast Asia particularly from the perspective of gender Gavin Jones Director JY Pillay Comparative Asia Research Centre National University of Singapore

Family Diversity Pauline Irit Erera, 2001-09-11 This nonjudgmental inclusive and far reaching text focuses on the diverse patterns of family structure prevalent in our society today Family Diversity presents empirical research on the internal dynamics social environments support factors prevalence of discrimination and common stereotypes that account for the issues surrounding current family relations By examining the history and nature of foster and adoptive single parent lesbian gay step and grandparent family units Pauline Irit Erera is able to challenge both the idealized family prototype and the hegemony of the traditional structure

Who Will Care for Us? Ronald Angel, Jacqueline L. Angel, 1999-06 An important contribution to the on going national dialogue concerning the need for planning for an increasingly aged population and its impact on our social political medical economic institutions Wisconsin Bookwatch Based on their assessments of the levels of need for the long term care among African American Latino and non Latino white older persons the authors offer viable and attractive possible alternatives to institutionalization in the long term care of the elderly Nurse Practitioner A major contribution Should be a part of every course on social gerontology long term care the demography of aging or formal informal support networks of the elderly Robert Joseph Taylor Institute for Social Research University of Michigan America is getting older By the year 2010 almost one in five Americans will be 65 years of age or older The combined forces of low fertility and longer life spans among all racial and ethnic groups have resulted in a disproportionate increase in the number of individuals over 65 and an even faster increase in the proportion of those individuals over eighty five As a result the nation faces an unprecedented challenge in addressing the economic medical and long term care needs of this older population at the same time that it assures the welfare of the young The growth of the cost of the long term care of the elderly is one of the major forces behind recent increases in Medicaid expenditures and any reformed health care financing system will have to find ways of providing high quality long term care to older Americans at a reasonable cost In a racially and culturally diverse nation like the United States official policy regarding the care of the elderly simply cannot be based on the assumption that the elderly are a culturally and socially monolithic population The cultural social and economic situations of the elderly simply differ too greatly and the family s role in their care is affected by important cultural and social factors In Who Will Care for Us Ronald J and Jacqueline L Angel argue that policies based on the assumption of a homogenous population will fail to take advantage of the opportunities that ethnic and cultural diversity offer for the long term care of the elderly The authors examine the great racial and ethnic diversity among the elderly in the contemporary U S in terms of living arrangements economic well being and reliance on formal and family based sources of support Based on their assessments of the levels of need for long term care among black Hispanic and non Hispanic white older persons they offer viable and attractive possible alternatives to institutionalization in the long term care of the elderly
