Wehrs,Thomas Blake,2017-12-01 This volume provides a comprehensive account of how scholarship on affect and scholarship on texts have come to inform one another over the past few decades The result has been that explorations of how texts address elicit shape and dramatize affect have become central to contemporary work in literary film and art criticism as well as in critical theory rhetoric performance studies and aesthetics Guiding readers to the variety of topics themes interdisciplinary dialogues and sub disciplinary specialties that the study of interplay between affect and texts has either inaugurated or revitalized the handbook showcases and engages the diversity of scholarly topics approaches and projects that thinking of affect in relation to texts and related media open up or enable These include but are not limited to investigations of what attention to affect brings to established methods of studying texts in terms of period genre cultural contexts rhetoric and individual authorship American Fury Myra Mendible,2024-02-12 Moral outrage is one of the most compelling complex and powerful emotional responses It is the affective currency that drives collective action in a democracy where it can rally constituents incentivize legislation affect how we vote and catalyze individual anger into righteous protests or mob rule In recent years outrage has bolstered extremism and political polarization and it spurred thousands of self prescribed patriots to storm the U S capitol But it also gave birth to new social justice groups such as Black Lives Matter and March for Our Lives and what began as an outraged tweet ultimately grew into the global MeToo movement This book offers the first interdisciplinary study of the myriad ways moral outrage is articulated invoked and mediated in contemporary U S society from feminist and indigenous politics climate activism and school curriculum debates to book banning alt right rhetoric literature and entertainment venues Setting its focus on the social dynamics and cultural effects of collective outrage these timely essays underscore its vital function as a galvanizing force in identity politics social change policymaking and civic engagement Cumulated Index Medicus ,1991 Resources in Education ,1992 Choice ,1995 Subject Guide to Books in Print ,1991 Current Index to Journals in Education ,1999 Psychology in Learning and Instruction Patricia A. Alexander,2006 This book introduces future educators and researchers to several different psychological perspectives and uses these perspectives to introduce key issues such as knowledge acquisition and transfer strategic process and student motivation As an editor and reviewer of the top journals in the field the author is able to present the latest research in language that is accessible and understandable Unlike other books that are organized around theoretical topics valued by psychologists it is organized around education problems and issues deemed important by educators Resources in Education ,1992 Race in the Making Lawrence A. Hirschfeld, 1996 Race in the Making provides a new understanding of how people conceptualize social categories and shows why this knowledge is so readily recruited to create and maintain systems of unequal power Hirschfeld argues that knowledge of race is not derived from observations of physical difference nor does it develop in the same way as knowledge of other social categories Instead his central claim is that racial thinking is the product of a special purpose cognitive competence for understanding and representing human kinds The book also challenges the conventional wisdom that race is purely a social construction by demonstrating that a common set of abstract principles underlies all systems of racial thinking whatever other historical and cultural specificities may be associated with them Starting from the commonplace observation that race is a category of both power and the mind Race in the Making directly tackles this issue Through a sustained exploration of continuity and change in the child's notion of race and across historical variations in the race concept Hirschfeld shows that a singular commonsense theory about human kinds constrains the way racial thinking changes whether in historical time or during childhood After surveying the literature on the development of a cultural psychology of race Hirschfeld presents original studies that examine children's and occasionally adults' representations of race He sketches how a jointly cultural and psychological approach to race might proceed showing how this approach yields new insights into the emergence and elaboration of racial thinking

Ethnic American Literatures and Critical Race Narratology Alexa Weik von Mossner, Marijana Mikić, Mario Grill, 2022-06-16 Ethnic American Literatures and Critical Race Narratology explores the relationship between narrative race and ethnicity in the United States Situated at the intersection of post-classical narratology and context-oriented approaches in race, ethnic and cultural studies the contributions to this edited volume interrogate the complex and varied ways in which ethnic American authors use narrative form to engage readers in issues related to race and ethnicity along with other important identity markers such as class, religion, gender and sexuality Importantly the book also explores how paying attention to the formal features of ethnic American literatures changes our understanding of narrative theory and how narrative theories can help us to think about author functions and race The international and diverse group of contributors includes top scholars in narrative theory and in race and ethnic studies and the texts they analyze concern a wide variety of topics from the representation of time and space to the narration of trauma and other deeply emotional memories to the importance of literary paratexts, genre structures and author functions
