New Zealand As Middle Earth Magical Landscapes In A Real World:

The Science of Middle-earth Roland Lehoucq, Loic Mangin, Jean-Sebastien Steyer, 2021-04-06 The surprising and illuminating look at how Tolkien's love of science and natural history shaped the creation of his Middle Earth from its flora and fauna to its landscapes The world J R R Tolkien created is one of the most beloved in all of literature and continues to capture hearts and imaginations around the world From Oxford to ComiCon the Middle Earth is analyzed and interpreted through a multitude of perspectives But one essential facet of Tolkien and his Middle Earth has been overlooked science This great writer creator of worlds and unforgettable character and inventor of language was also a scientific autodidact with an innate interest and grasp of botany paleontologist and geologist with additional passions for archeology and chemistry Tolkien was an acute observer of flora and fauna and mined the minds of his scientific friends about ocean currents and volcanoes It is these layers science that give his imaginary universe and the creatures and characters that inhabit it such concreteness Within this gorgeously illustrated edition a range of scientists from astrophysicists to physicians botanists to volcanologists explore Tolkien's novels poems and letters to reveal their fascinating scientific roots A rewarding combination of literary exploration and scientific discovery The Science of Middle Earth reveals the hidden meaning of the Ring's corruption why Hobbits have big feet the origins of the Dwarves the animals which inspired the dragons and even whether or not an Ent is possible Enhanced by superb original drawings this transportive work will delight both Tolkien fans and science lovers and inspire us to view both Middle Earth and our own world with fresh eyes

Locating Migrating Media Greg Elmer, Charles H. Davis, Janine Marchessault, John McCullough, 2012-07-10 Locating Migrating Media details the extent to which media productions both televisual and cinematic have sought out new and cheaper shot locations creative staff and financing around the world The book contributes to debates about media globalization focusing on the local impact of new sites of media production The book's chapters also question the role that film and television industries and local and regional governments play in broader economic development and tax incentive schemes While metaphors of transportation mobility fluidity and change continue to serve as key concepts and frames for understanding contemporary media industries products and processes the essays in this book look to local spaces neighborhoods cultural workers and stories to ground the global that is to interrogate the effect of media globalization before during and after film and television shooting and onsite production By locating migrating media these chapters seek to determine the political economic and cultural conditions that produce contemporary forms of televisual and cinematic storytelling and how these processes affect the inhabitants the look and the very geopolitical future of local communities neighborhoods cities and regions The focus on relocated screen production highlights the act of film and television making both aesthetically and economically To locate migrating media is therefore to determine the political and cultural economies of globalized sets and stages be they in new studios or on city streets or perhaps most importantly in our imaginations through Children's Literature Amy Cutter-Mackenzie, Phillip Payne, Alan Reid, 2014-06-11 Recent scholarship on children's literature displays a wide variety of interests in classic and contemporary children's books. While environmental and ecological concerns have led to an interest in ecocriticism, as yet there is little on the significance of the ecological imagination and experience to both the authors and readers young and old of these texts. This edited collection brings together a set of original international research-based chapters to explore the role of children's literature in learning about environments and places with a focus on how children's literature may inform and enrich our imagination, experiences, and responses to environmental challenges and injustice. Contributions from Australia, Canada, USA, and UK explore the diverse ways in which children's literature can provide what are arguably some of the first and possibly most formative engagements that some children might have with nature. Chapters examine classic and new storybooks, mythic tales, and image-based and/or written texts read at home, in school, and in the field. Contributors focus on exploring how children's literature mediates and informs our imagination and understandings of diverse environments and places and how it might open our eyes and lives to other presences, understandings, and priorities through stories, their telling, and re-telling, and their analysis. This book was originally published as a special issue of Environmental Education Research.

Experiencing Environment and Place

Audiovisual Tourism Promotion Diego Bonelli, Alfio Leotta, 2022-01-03 This book deploys the concept of audiovisual tourism promotion to account for the promotional functions performed by a vast array of diverse media texts including tourism films, feature films, digital videos conceived for online circulation, video games, and TV commercials. From this point of view, this volume fills a major gap in the literature by providing the first comprehensive critical overview of audiovisual tourism promotion as a distinct media field. In this book, the study of audiovisual tourism promotion is characterised by an interdisciplinary approach which combines film studies, media studies, human geography, sociology, tourism studies, history, postcolonial, and gender studies. This book will appeal to a wide range of students and scholars from different disciplines.

Screen Tourism and Affective Landscapes Erik Champion, Christina Lee, Jane Stadler, Robert Moses Peaslee, 2022-12-30 This book explores ways in which screen-based storyworlds transfix, transform, and transport us imaginatively, physically, and virtually to the places they depict or film. Topics include fantasy quests in computer games, celebrity walking tours, dark tourism sites, Hobbiton as theme park, surf movies, and social gangs of Disneyland. How physical, virtual, and imagined locations create a sense of place through their immediate experience or visitation is undergoing a revolution in technology, travel modes, and tourism behaviour. This edited collection explores the rapidly evolving field of screen tourism and the affective impact of landscape with provocative questions and investigations of social groups, fan culture, new technology, and the wider changing trends in screen tourism. We provide critical examples of affective landscapes across a wide range of mediums from the big screen to the small screen and locations. This book will appeal to students and scholars in film and tourism, as well as geography, design, media, and communication studies, game studies, and digital humanities.

Landmark Facts Orin Brightfield, AI, 2025-02-19 Landmark

Facts explores the multifaceted roles of landmarks in shaping world history cultural heritage and global tourism Far from being mere tourist attractions these sites drive economic growth and influence cultural exchange One intriguing aspect is how landmarks embody cultural values and project national identities while another lies in the architectural marvels that showcase feats of engineering and design The book progresses by first introducing core concepts like architectural significance and economic influence It then explores these ideas through focused chapters examining how landmarks act as cultural symbols and how tourism revenue impacts preservation Landmark Facts uniquely combines architectural analysis with cultural interpretation and economic assessment offering a comprehensive view of landmarks as dynamic symbols The book reveals the hidden stories behind iconic landmarks showing how a monument can reshape a nation s economy
