Education for a Changing World of Work: Technical training in the United States United States. Panel of Consultants on Vocational Education,1963      Transforming Curriculum Through Teacher-Learner Partnerships Nair, Pradeep,Keppell, Michael James,Lim, Chee Leong,Mari, TamilSalvi,Hassan, Nurhanim,2020-12-11 Empowering learners for life requires a fundamental shift in higher education curriculum design New priorities pedagogies technologies spaces and assessment strategies are required to enable learners to take ownership of their learning Student centeredness concepts are still prescriptive in nature as most decisions on curriculum assessment teaching and learning approaches are still teacher centric Teachers are developing student centered learning environments without the involvement of the learners in the planning decision making and or design process In addition some lecturers are still practicing the traditional approaches of content delivery and conventional assessment methods rather than experimenting with innovative practices suited for student centered approaches Therefore there is an ongoing need for research focused on the importance and effectiveness of a paradigm shift in education that involves student teacher partnerships fueled by innovative teaching and learning designs where students take an active role and contribute as partners in learning Transforming Curriculum Through Teacher Learner Partnerships captures experiences and evidence among teachers in exploring the possibility of active student participation in curriculum design delivery and assessment through teacher learner partnership The chapters address issues of teacher learner partnerships in designing the learning environment and how student centered methods create resilient adaptable and future capable learners While highlighting topics within this scope such as learner autonomy learning performance self efficacy and teaching pedagogy this book is ideally intended for teachers administrators teacher educators practitioners stakeholders researchers academicians and students interested in issues related to the teacher learner partnership

Resources in Education ,2001-10      Detracking for Excellence and Equity Carol Corbett Burris Corbett Burris,Delia T. Garrity,2008-08-15 Ability grouping Leveling systems Streaming This is the modern way of talking about tracking the traditional practice of sorting and selecting students based on test scores and other criteria and then steering these groups into the most appropriate course of study In 1987 New York s suburban Rockville Centre School District faced the fact that its longstanding tracking system was resulting in unequal educational opportunities and allowing racial and socioeconomic stratification of its student population School leaders embarked on an ambitious program of reform reexamining beliefs about intelligence ability and instruction and offering all students the opportunity to study a rigorous curriculum in heterogeneous classrooms In this book authors Carol Corbett Burris and Delia T Garrity veterans of the Rockville Centre

School District offer an experience based and research supported argument that detracking implemented with planning patience and persistence can do in every school district what it did in theirs raise achievement across the board and dramatically narrow the achievement gap Their main goal is a practical one to provide educational leaders with proven strategies for launching sustaining and monitoring a successful detracking reform Here you ll read Why detracking is necessary the benefits it brings and how to build support among teachers and parents How to revise curriculum to level up instruction How to establish a multiyear personalized professional development program to help teachers address new instructional needs How to best support effective teaching and learning in a heterogeneous classroom Detracking for Excellence and Equity outlines a comprehensive approach built on self reflection direct action vigilant supervision and a set of very clear beliefs that schools and opportunity matter that acceleration and enrichment will improve all students achievement and that all students deserve access to the best curriculum
