1. A non-extension of the lab activity: Making Connections, a biology teacher asked students to transform variable x rather than y so that x would affect heart rate. The students hypothesized that eating a lunch high in protein would decrease heart rates. The heart rates of 15 students were lower while the heart rate of 5 students were higher after lunch.

The best explanation for the observation that the heart rates of 5 students were higher after class is

- A) the heart rate of female student(s) are not affected by a high protein meal.

B) the students all participated in physical education class immediately before lunch.

C) the students all had varying physical fitness level(s) and consumed different amounts of protein.

- A student is opening and closing clothespins as part of a lab activity. The student begins to experience muscle fatigue, and the rate at which the student is opening and closing the clothespins slows. Which graph best represents the relationship between a time and number of clothespin squeezes?
