Multicriteria Methodology for Decision Aiding B. Roy, 2013-11-11 axiomatic results should be at the heart of such a science Through them we should be able to enlighten and scientifically assist decision making processes especially by making that which is objective stand out more clearly from that which is less objective separating robust from fragile conclusions dissipating certain forms of misunderstanding in communication avoiding the pitfall of illusory reasoning emphasizing once they are understood incontrovertible results The difficulties I encountered at the beginning of my career as an operations researcher and later as a consultant made me realize that there were some limitations on objectivity in decision aiding In my opinion five major aspects must be taken into consideration 1 The borderline or frontier between what is and what is not feasible is often fuzzy Moreover this borderline is frequently modified in light of what is found from the study itself 2 In many real world problems the decision maker D does not really exist as a person truly able to make a decision Usually several people actors or stakeholders take part in the decision process and it is important not to confuse the one who ratifies a decision with the so called decision maker in the decision aiding process This decision maker is in fact the person or the set of persons for whom or in the name of whom decision aiding effort is provided
