This Springer Handbook assembles the existing knowledge concerning plastic materials and identifies obstacles and objectives of innovations and technologies that will bring human society closer to the goal of a fully circular economy of plastic materials. The handbook offers a source of information, a knowledge base and inspiration for those aiming to create an economy that paves the road for future generations. The editorial board and invited authors represent international key figures from a broad range of disciplines including chemistry, engineering, material sciences, logistics, data and information sciences, systems engineering, economy and sustainability as well as disciplines related to culture, art and design. Key topics include: Development of biodegradable plastics, Advanced recycling strategies, Design for recyclability, Legal and economic perspectives, Role of startups and innovative technologies, Novel business models and business strategies. By allowing the reader to learn and apply the measures needed for the implementation of a Circular Plastics Economy, the handbook will be of particular interest to innovators, decision makers, planners, designers, producers in industry, politics and society as well as consumers, students, teachers, communicators, journalists and cultural workers. Manual for the Use of the Legislature of the State of New York (New York (State)).
