Transformer Requirements

Auxiliary Supply can provide:
Automatic Shut-Down
Voltage Battery Charge Controller

Do not short the terminals of the transformer together. This causes the internal fuse to blow.

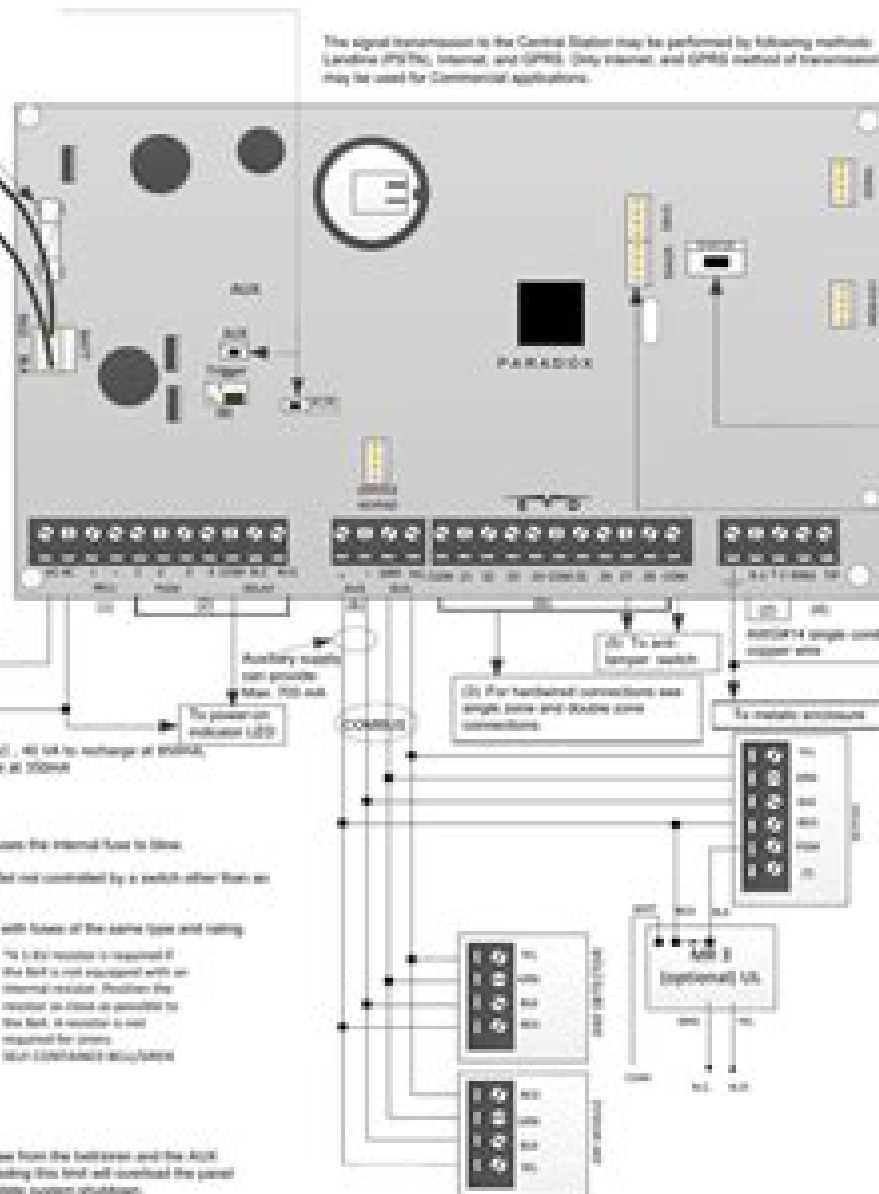

The transformer must be connected to a 120 VAC, 24-hour outlet not controlled by a switch other than an approved over-current protection device.

For continued protection against risk of fire, replace fuses only with fuses of the same type and rating.

The "BIL" output will shut down if the current exceeds 3A.

*A LED module is required if the test is not equipped with an internal module. Position the module as close as possible to the test. A resistor is not required for some BIL commands (BIL00000)

The test load of the current draw from the battery and the AUX must be limited to 3.0A. Exceeding this limit will overload the panel power supply and lead to complete system shutdown.

Please Note: When powering up the (EV) control panel, the panel will begin a module scan to verify that all modules connected to the panel are operational. The scanning process will take between 30 seconds and 5 minutes to complete depending on the number of modules connected to the control panel. The module scan is complete when the LCD keypad begins to show the partition status. Only after the module scan is completed will the control panel be fully operational. When installing the control wires in a noisy environment or when connecting the control across separate buildings, you must use a shielded cable. Refer to section 2.10.1. Please see ETL and ETL-C Warnings for and information in the appendix.

Although external power supplies can be used to provide power to modules connected far from the control panel the total distance of all runs of wire combined cannot exceed 100m (3280 ft.). For example if ten runs of wire measuring 100m (3280 ft.) each are connected to the control panel, the total distance would be 3280m (10800 ft.) which exceeds the system capacity.

All knockouts provided for connection of a field wiring system in a field wiring compartment shall accommodate conduct of the trade size according to NEC.

The metal housing which encased the Fire and Burglar system housing has knockouts on the sides and in the back enclosure. The wiring method requires that loadings are used for wiring through the metal box, including the transformer with Plug-in Power Supply.
