Cluster 1

High:

In this cluster, the student excels in investigating the complex interactions between organisms and their environments. Demonstrating an advanced understanding, the student adeptly identifies and analyzes both biotic and abiotic components of ecosystems. The student conducts a meticulous analysis of the cycling of matter within ecosystems, delving into the transfer of energy at various consumer levels and comprehending the implications of the loss of producers and consumers on energy transfer. Adeptly exploring the potential for bioaccumulation, the student showcases a profound understanding of the intricate ecological dynamics.

Furthermore, the student engages in a comprehensive study of ecological succession, critically assessing the positive and negative impacts of human interventions on this natural process. Engaging in discussions, the student explores environmental, social, and economic factors integral to the management and preservation of ecosystems. Proposing a thoughtful course of action to protect the habitat of a particular organism, the student demonstrates an exemplary commitment to environmental stewardship. Utilizing microscopes, the student observes micro-organisms, discussing their beneficial and harmful roles. Moreover, the student investigates how knowledge of micro-organisms has contributed to advancements in food production and preservation techniques. This high level of engagement, critical thinking, and practical application contributes to an exemplary performance in this cluster.

Intermediate:

In this cluster, the student engages in investigating the complex interactions between organisms and their environment. The student identifies biotic and abiotic components of ecosystems and conducts an analysis of the cycling of matter within them. The student explores the transfer of energy at various consumer levels and begins to comprehend the implications of the loss of producers and consumers on energy transfer. Additionally, the student explores the potential for bioaccumulation within ecosystems.
