PARTITA NO. 3 Selected Stories Cecep Syamsul Hari, 2023-04-09 The best Indonesian short stories I've ever translated written by a world class writer Narudin literary critic translator Partita No 3 publishes nine selected short stories written by Cecep Syamsul Hari an Indonesian born poet and author Sit down I'm going to play a composition for you Hmm what about Sebastian Bach For a year you've just paid a brief visit twice and it seems to me that you get enough of it It's okay I just don't know whether after this evening you will come again Partita No 3 in E for Solo Violin A good opening for your new short story said Anna Perhaps I replied My eyes looked into Anna's blue eyes penetrating the kitchen wall passing over the meadow crossing the river coming into the forest depth and seeing the woman One Thousand Seagulls of Narrawa He did see a pale hand with delicate fingers dancing in a quiet space at a bitter night with a little wind At a glance gladioli red roses and fern leaves had grown into a living painting on a small pot black and a parrot was flapping a pair of the dark wings Awake An army of soldiers was practicing marching with the full force in distance One could hear someone giving a cue The marching songs shed those dry season leaves The telephone was ringing incessantly I finally struggled to unplug the cord I stowed away under a dining table Silhouette You will die Somewhere in the sea A whale will swallow your body You will not be reborn as a better human being worse or just average Not like other living beings tigers groupers or herons for instance You have no enemies but there will be someone loving to hear you dying I Know I Will Die in the Sea He thought the time had come Some sort of ritual farewells with his life crossed his mind Crossing his mind to write a long letter but to whom then having a shower making a cup of hot coffee milk playing a song by George Harrison My Sweet Lord or writing a poem A Knife Please don't laugh Doc I struck her first with a serious facial expression and with an Al Pacino's theatrical gesture behind a wooden pulpit when he was starting to give a speech as a New York mayor in front of the Japanese executives in the City Hall An Ulcer Far below the cars were crawling slowly The rain caused a traffic jam Such a big city disease People were passing by bringing umbrellas They were rushing around like being chased by something A group of teenagers offered the rented umbrellas They walked behind the umbrellas tenants and let the rain wet their heads faces and bodies Rendezvous I almost jumped to immediately open it I saw him standing with a cheerful smile a quiet gesture as usual And what I always missed his sullen eyes A happy smile and a sad look lips and eyes so close the distance so much the difference Was this man created from the paradox Because Rinana is Gone Tentative Selection from Best Books New York State Library, 1912 The Monthly Musical Record, 1901 A Belief in Humanity: The Untold Story of Conciliar Humanism Thomas D. Carroll, 2024-09-12 I believe in a new humanity Evocative words spoken by Pope Francis to the assembled young people in Krakow Poland during the final mass for World Youth Day on July 31 2016 What was he thinking about Where did this idea come from This book answers these questions and examines for the first time an original way of thinking about our shared humanity a way that was intimated sixty years ago and is still to be explored Marching to the

Canon Scott Messing, 2014 Marching to the Canon examines the history of Schubert's Marche militaire no 1 from its beginnings through its many arrangements to its impact on dance literature film and music Marche militaire is Franz Schubert's most recognizable and beloved instrumental work Originally published for piano four hands in 1826 this tuneful march Schubert's first of three military marches was arranged adapted and incorporated into new incarnations over the next two centuries Its success was due to its chameleonlike ability to cross the still porous borders between canonic and popular repertoires creating a performance life that made deep inroads into dance literature and film and inspired quotations or allusions in other music Marching to the Canon examines the history of Schubert's storied Marche militaire from its modest beginnings as a duet published for domestic consumption to its now ubiquitous presence After detailing the composition publication and reception of the original march the book analyzes the impact of transcriptions and arrangements for solo piano orchestra band and other settings In addition it considers the ways the march was used symbolically even manipulated during the Franco Prussian War and the two world wars as well as the diverse creative uses of the piece by significant figures as varied as Willa Cather Isadora Duncan Walt Disney and Igor Stravinsky This study of the reception and impact of the Marche militaire offers a unique narrative illuminating the world that enshrined this remarkable score as one of the most memorable musical works of the nineteenth century Scott Messing is the Charles A Dana Professor of Music at Alma College and the author of two works available from the University of Rochester Press Neoclassicism in Music and the two volume Schubert in the European Imagination

Heinrich Schenker and Beethoven's 'Hammerklavier' Sonata Nicholas Marston, 2017-07-05 In 1912 Heinrich Schenker contracted with the Viennese publisher Universal Edition to provide an elucidatory edition Erl erungsausgabe of Beethoven s last five piano sonatas Each publication would comprise a score newly edited by Schenker and using the composer s autograph manuscript as principal source together with a substantial commentary combining analytical text critical and performance related matter Four of the five editions appeared between 1913 and 1921 but that of the Hammerklavier Sonata op 106 was never published It has generally been assumed that this was simply because Schenker was unable to locate the autograph manuscript which remains missing to this day But as Nicholas Marston shows in a detailed history of the Erl erungsausgabe project other factors were involved also including financial considerations Schenker s health concerns and his broader theoretical ambitions Moreover despite the missing autograph he nevertheless developed a voice leading analysis of the complete sonata during the years 1924 1926 a crucial period in the development of his mature theory of tonal music Marston s book provides the first in depth study of this rich analysis which is reproduced in full in high quality digital images The book draws on hundreds of letters and documents from Schenker s Nachla it both adds to our biographical knowledge of Schenker and illuminates for the first time the response of this giant of music theory to one of the most significant masterworks in all music

INTERNATIONAL WHO'S WHO 56 1992-93,1992 A Natural Theology of the Arts Anthony Monti,2017-07-05 A Natural Theology of the Arts contends that the arts are theological by their very nature and not simply when they are explicitly religious thereby constituting a distinctive kind of natural theology Borrowing from science the stance of critical realism to justify truth claims in art and theology it argues that works of art are complex metaphors that convey the real presence of God even when not labelled as such Citing numerous examples from literature painting and music including Shakespeare s King Lear Vermeer s Young Woman with a Water Jug Rembrandt s Return of the Prodigal Son and Stephen Cleobury s experiences performing Bach s St Matthew Passion and Britten s Rejoice in the Lamb the author concludes that works of art anticipate the new creation thereby suggesting a Trinitarian account of the God present in the creation and reception of such works
