Gender, Violence and Politics in the Democratic Republic of Congo Jane Freedman, 2016-03-09 The Democratic Republic of Congo DRC has been called the worst place in the world for women with reports of widespread and horrific incidents of rape and sexual violence and almost complete impunity for the perpetrators of such violence. However, despite the high profile media reporting on sexual violence in the DRC and the widely publicized responses of the international community, there is still very little real analysis of the real situation of women in the country. This book provides such detailed analysis of gender relations in the DRC and goes beyond the usual explanations of sexual violence as a product of conflict to examine the complex and socially constructed gender norms and roles which underlie incidences of violence. The book benefits from a comprehensive account of men's and women's roles in conflict, violence, peace building and reconstruction and evaluates the impacts of national and international political responses. In doing so, this book provides valuable new evidence and analysis of the complex and multilayered conflicts in the DRC.

Fixing Gender Assistant Professor of Gender Peace and Security Aiko Holvikivi, 2024-07-24 Through an ethnographic study of gender training practices in peacekeeping institutions, Aiko Holvikivi examines how gender is conceptualised, taught and learned in these settings and with what political effects. She finds that this training constitutes a deeply ambivalent practice from the point of view of intersectional feminist political commitments. Drawing on queer and postcolonial feminist thought, Fixing Gender examines the contradictory politics of gender training, arguing that we need to develop the analytical tools to grapple with paradoxical practices that are simultaneously good and bad feminist politics.

Conflict-Related Sexual Violence in Myanmar Phyu Phyu Oo, 2025-02-17 The prevention of conflict-related sexual violence (CRSV) often relies on states to lead prevention and response mechanisms at the domestic level. However, state actors such as the military are frequently responsible for this violence. Can states play an effective role in preventing and responding to CRSV? Conflict-Related Sexual Violence in Myanmar: The Role of the State provides a deeper understanding of the state's role as a prevention actor and explains why strategies aimed at preventing CRSV often fail and can sometimes even result in more harm. Myanmar is a politically complex state that has experienced several decades of armed conflict, persistent military regimes and a high prevalence of CRSV incidents committed by the state armed forces, the Tatmadaw. The book offers unique insights into CRSV prevention efforts in Myanmar, tracing the implementation process of the Joint Communiqué (JC), an agreement signed between the Myanmar government and the United Nations to effectively prevent and respond to CRSV. This book is based on a comprehensive qualitative analysis of internal and public documents and interviews with multiple stakeholders over a two year period It reveals how the gendered power structure and formal and informal practices of Myanmar s state institutions constantly impeded the implementation process of the JC and offered a very limited political opportunity structure for local women s CSOs to be involved in the JC implementation A significant portion of the data in this book was collected in 2021 following the military coup in Myanmar The author describes her experiences as a local researcher in solidarity with the local research participants experiencing the brutality of the military crackdown and conducting data collection in a particularly challenging context
