Landscape Architecture ,2002 Experiencing Environment and Place

through Children's Literature Amy Cutter-Mackenzie, Phillip Payne, Alan Reid, 2014-06-11 Recent scholarship on children's literature displays a wide variety of interests in classic and contemporary children's books. While environmental and ecological concerns have led to an interest in ecocriticism, as yet there is little on the significance of the ecological imagination and experience to both the authors and readers young and old of these texts. This edited collection brings together a set of original international research-based chapters to explore the role of children's literature in learning about environments and places with a focus on how children's literature may inform and enrich our imagination, experiences, and responses to environmental challenges and injustice. Contributions from Australia, Canada, USA, and UK explore the diverse ways in which children's literature can provide what are arguably some of the first and possibly most formative engagements that some children might have with nature. Chapters examine classic and new storybooks, mythic tales, and image-based and/or written texts read at home, in school, and in the field. Contributors focus on exploring how children's literature mediates and informs our imagination and understandings of diverse environments and places and how it might open our eyes and lives to other presences, understandings, and priorities through stories, their telling, and re-telling, and their analysis. This book was originally published as a special issue of Environmental Education Research.

Audiovisual Tourism Promotion Diego Bonelli, Alfio Leotta, 2022-01-03 This book deploys the concept of audiovisual tourism promotion to account for the promotional functions performed by a vast array of diverse media texts including tourism films, feature films, digital videos conceived for online circulation, video games, and TV commercials. From this point of view, this volume fills a major gap in the literature by providing the first comprehensive critical overview of audiovisual tourism promotion as a distinct media field. In this book, the study of audiovisual tourism promotion is characterised by an interdisciplinary approach which combines film studies, media studies, human geography, sociology, tourism studies, history, postcolonial, and gender studies. This book will appeal to a wide range of students and scholars from different disciplines.

Screen Tourism and Affective Landscapes Erik Champion, Christina Lee, Jane Stadler, Robert Moses Peaslee, 2022-12-30 This book explores ways in which screen-based storyworlds transfix, transform, and transport us imaginatively, physically, and virtually to the places they depict or film. Topics include fantasy quests in computer games, celebrity walking tours, dark tourism sites, Hobbiton as theme park, surf movies, and social gangs of Disneyland. How physical, virtual, and imagined locations create a sense of place through their immediate experience or visitation is undergoing a revolution in technology, travel modes, and tourism behaviour. This edited collection explores the rapidly evolving field of screen tourism and the affective impact of landscape with provocative questions and investigations of social groups, fan culture, new technology, and the wider changing trends in screen tourism. We provide critical examples of affective landscapes across a wide range of mediums from the big screen to the small screen and locations. This book will appeal to students and scholars in film and tourism, as well as geography, design, media, and communication studies, game studies, and digital humanities.

this volume seeks to adapt and apply More's fecund imagination to the contemporary leisure landscape. The contributors to this volume theorize and analyze a variety of tourist utopias, a nascent socio-spatial form crucial to a post-industrial global economy. From Disney World to Dubai, Middle Earth to Marina Bay Macau to Abu Dhabi, these sites share common characteristics that include their respective status as spaces of exception, entrepreneurial governance regimes that rely on cooperation among state and non-state actors, transient multinational populations, immaterial and affective forms of labor and consumption, superlative and iconic architecture, and economies devoted to such leisure activities as shopping, gambling, and spectacle. These locales are not only popular destinations for migrant workers and mobile tourists from around the globe but also serve as cultural laboratories for testing new formats and protocols of an emergent post-Fordist form of life.

TV Set Designs Benjamin Ramirez, AI, 2025-03-31 TV Set Designs explores the critical role of television set design in shaping narratives and enhancing the viewer experience. It argues that sets are not mere backdrops but active storytellers influencing audience engagement through carefully chosen visual elements. For example, color palettes and spatial arrangements subtly convey meaning, reinforce themes, and evoke emotions, impacting how viewers interpret characters and plot developments. The book delves into the practical challenges of set design, such as budgetary constraints and technological advancements, and how designers adapt to diverse production needs across genres. The book adopts an accessible approach, presenting complex concepts with clear definitions and illustrative examples. It examines the semiotic function of sets and the practical considerations that drive design choices, providing a comprehensive understanding of TV design. Tracing its evolution from minimalist studios to immersive environments, the book illuminates how technologies like color broadcasting and CGI have transformed set design practices. Case studies of iconic TV shows demonstrate the effective use of set design, while interviews with leading professionals offer insights into the creative process. Beginning with fundamental principles and historical context, the book progresses through specific aspects like color, lighting, and spatial manipulation. It integrates architecture, psychology, and semiotics to enrich its argument, demonstrating set design's multifaceted nature. Concluding with future trends, it explores the potential of virtual and augmented reality to redefine visual storytelling in film and television.
