The writer of alternate history asks what if? What if one historical event were different, what would the world look like today? In a similar way, the postmodern philosopher of history suggests that history is literature or that if we read certain historical details differently, we would get a distinctly different interpretation of past events. While the science fiction alternate history means to illuminate the past to increase our understanding of past events, however, the postmodern approach to history typically suggests that such understanding is impossible. To the postmodern philosopher, history is like literature in that it does not offer the reader access to the past but only an interesting story. Building on criticism that suggests personal psychological reasons for this obscuring the past and using a literary theory of readership, this book challenges the postmodern approach to history. It channels the speculative power of science fiction to read the works of postmodern philosophy of history as alternate histories themselves and to map the limits and pathology of their forgetful reading of the past. The Block Reader in Visual Culture George Robertson, 1996. Brings together classic writings by leading cultural theorists which were first published in the journal and are now unavailable. The Man in the High Castle and

Philosophy Bruce Krajewski, Joshua Heter, 2017-08-04. The Man in the High Castle is an Amazon TV show based on the Philip K. Dick novel about an alternate present beginning in the 1960s in which Germany and Japan won World War II with the former Western US occupied by Japan, the former Eastern US occupied by Nazi Germany and a small neutral zone between them. A theme of the story is that in this alternative world, there is eager speculation fueled by the illicit newsreel The Grasshopper Lies Heavy about how the world would have been different if America had won the war. In The Man in the High Castle and Philosophy, twenty-two professional thinkers look at philosophical issues raised by this ongoing enterprise in alternative history. One question is whether it really made a profound difference that the Allies won the war and exactly what differences in everyday life we may expect to arise from an apparent historical turning point. Could it be that some dramatic historical events have only superficial consequences while some unnoticed occurrences lead to catastrophic results? Another topic is the quest for truth in a world of government misinformation and how dissenting organizations can make headway.

Fernando Vidal, 2025-10-01 Performing Brains on Screen deals with film enactments and representations of the belief that human beings are essentially their brains a belief that embodies one of the most influential modern ways of understanding the human Films have performed brains in two chief ways by turning physical brains into protagonists as in the brain movies of the 1950s which show terrestrial or extra terrestrial disembodied brains carrying out their evil intentions or by giving brains that remain unseen inside someone's head an explicitly major role as in brain transplantation films or their successors since the 1980s in which brain contents are transferred and manipulated by means of information technology Through an analysis of filmic genres and particular movies Performing Brains on Screen documents this neglected filmic universe and demonstrates how the cinema has functioned as a cultural space where a core notion of the contemporary world has been rehearsed and problematized      The Year's Best Science Fiction: Twenty-Sixth Annual Collection Gardner
