This book serves to shed a light on the position of women in media and how these institutions shape the women's contributions to national development. The authors argue that women are unsung heroes driving the growth of nations. Nevertheless, their stories are seldom told; they are often stereotyped and marginalized within society. This form of discrimination serves to take away the voices of women in all social strata, especially in the developing nations of Africa. It is little wonder that there is gender inequality, gender bias, and gender injustice in society. This book highlights literature which may be used to actualize gender equality and social justice for women. By creating a discussion around gender, society will begin to understand the value and importance of women in engineering development. Women are vital to social change.

Samsung, Media Empire and Family Chunhyo Kim, 2016-02-26. This book analyses media conglomerates owning multiple media holdings under centralized ownership within and across media markets. It argues that Asian capitalists utilize both a market-oriented ideology and family connections to build their media empires, thereby creating cultural conglomerates that exercise corporate censorship over media markets. It focuses on family-controlled media conglomerates in Korea, specifically the international business giant Samsung and its related media companies Cheil Jedang and JoongAng Ilbo, all of which are controlled by the single Lee family. Utilizing the theoretical approach of political economy of communication, the book examines how and why the Lee family exercises corporate censorship over Korean society. Offering an essential take on Asia's political economy of communication in order to understand the workings of Asian media empires, this book will appeal to students and scholars of Korean Studies, Korean Business, and Mass Communications. American Government William Lyons, John M. Scheb, II, 2003. Media, Power and Empowerment Tereza Pavlíčková, Irena Reifová, 2014-10-16. This collection brings together 71 papers by 83 authors from 20 countries presented at the 5th Central and Eastern European Communication and Media Conference titled Media Power and Empowerment in Prague, Czech Republic, in April 2012. It maps out trends in CEE media research across the entire region and provides insight into the broad span of relevant topics. The contributors to the volume successfully voice the multiple yet specific questions relevant to the CEE countries; the papers offer original research results to the reader and invite them to participate in further debate on CEE media and communications research. To date, there have not been many publications dedicated to outlining the media and communications research interests across the region. This collection shows that the countries of the region indeed have a lot in common historically, politically, and socially while also discussing the differences among them, including the multiple political particularities within the unifying label 'the East' and variations in the transformation process and the consequences for concerned societies and their media scenes, as well as the individual lived experiences of the people of the CEE countries.
