My Life In Poems A Story Left Untold:

My Life in Poems Angela Clarke, 2015-07-22 This book is an inspirational story of a young woman's diary written in poetry. It's a collection of poems that was written during her teenage and early twenty years. These poems portray the raw emotion, experience, and growth of her life. It has passion, love, hate, fight, victory, joy, peace, and happiness. Read this book to see the growth and transition in this woman's life. It's amazing she is still alive today after all she has been through. My Life in Poems

Insightful Poetry to Feed the Soul Alvergia N. Barry, 2011-06-07 Alvergia Nee Nee Barry was born and raised in the Washington Metropolitan Area. She is the eldest of six siblings. She is the mother of three sons and a loving wife. Alvergia is highly committed to giving back and helping others facing opposition, which brings immense joy and passion. After experiencing the death of three significant loved ones and tackling other challenges, Alvergia began to notate her feelings. She was inspired to do so by one of those special loved ones. She has captivated the hearts of many who believe in her purpose and mission in life. Alvergia is the CEO and Founder of the Metropolitan Ladies of Camelot Inc. Outreach Assembly, a charitable 501(c)(3) non-profit organization whose mission is to make a positive difference and life-changing experience for those less fortunate. It is a part of the MLOC history. She is also a motivational speaker, mentor, community advocate, and entrepreneur that continues to reach for her destined greatness. Days and Times Paul K. Hooker, 2018-05-02

These poems seek to be playful with faith. Their aim is to expose the underlying sacredness of events that form the liturgy of living and to do so with sensitivity toward mystery, wonder, and occasionally suspicion. Some of them seek to tell stories left untold by the narratives of faith; others prod the narratives of ordinary life to see where faith may be hiding. These poems do not understand faith as an intellectual choice but rather as an involuntary trust in something beyond us, something always unclear, ill-lit, and inadequately characterized by the language religious people use to describe ultimate realities. They seek not so much to dismantle that language as to subvert its self-assuredness to find words that surprise and compel different ways of seeing.

Passages Doug Hodges, 2012-02-22 Like four of my previous books, these are collected tales of the Spirits. These stories are shared with me by the Spirits to be in turn shared with any and all. Other than being short stories, they have no framework, no rack upon which to hang a hat. They are inter-dimensional, timeless, real, and unreal. They cross the boundaries of myth, religion, history, and space. Some may seem simplistic; others convoluted. All are recorded as given to me. All are for the readers' entertainment. If more is gained and judged by many responses, this is the case. Then I feel that is why they were given to me and why said reader is reading them. I think and I hope others agree that they can be very funny. Again.

as in the previous volumes Raven and Coyote more often than not take the lead however there are some others herein lending their voice In the back of the book a baker's dozen poems appear I usually shy from mixing prose and poetry yet I noticed a number of the stories dealt with music and in any event I was led to include the poems As in my previous books save the first one I have tried to illustrate the way with what I think are pertinent images The world of these tales is miraculous mysterious wonderful surprising shocking and some times confusing It is a world that I have grown fond of and forget it may seem strange to the new reader I suggest one just jumps in All the stories from all the volumes stand on their own If the reader enjoys this particular book I recommend the others Within there is a story a word an image for everyone These
