had always been there and now were not After their loss she entered a spiritual and psychological state of transcendental homelessness the feeling of being truly at home nowhere of being spiritually adrift In a grand act of symbolic reenactment she found herself moving apartments repeatedly not realizing she did so subconsciously to keep busy to stave off grief By reading and studying great books she opened up to mourning a process she constitutionally resisted as somehow shameful Over time she discovered that a third death colored and prolonged her feelings of grief her first child's death in infancy which in the course of a happier lifetime had never been adequately acknowledged Her new losses led her finally to take stock of her son's death too Reading and meditating followed by writing became daily her healing rituals A warm and intimate user's guide to books family and memory in the mourning process the end point being memory without pain Crossing Back is a wide ranging memoir about growing older and learning to ride the waves of change Lively and conversational Torgovnick is masterful at tracking the moment to moment day to day challenges of sudden or protracted grief and the ways in which the mind and the body seem to search for and sometimes find solutions Parents ,1996
