Essays on Language in Societal Transformation Tunde Opeibi, Josef Schmied, Tope Omoniyi, Kofo Adedeji, 2015-01-30 This paper generally lends support to the arguments advanced by Awonusi 1989 1990 2004 and others in favour of an endonormative as opposed to an exonormative standard for English pronunciation in Nigeria They include the fact that the existing exonormative standard British Received Pronunciation RP has undergone and is still undergoing changes in its homeland and is not homogeneous The heightened social mobility of today's world perhaps works against the demarcation and homogenization of language varieties and this is all the more true of the varieties or lects that have been proposed for Nigerian English when these are related more or less explicitly to educational attainment Major attention is given in the paper to a schema of basilect mesolect and acrolect presented by Ugorji 2010 with a focus on his account of vowels and his presentation of a mechanism derived from optimality theory for evaluating vowels in contention The basilect and the mesolect are found to be so close to each other that they might be combined There would then be just two varieties In contrast the acrolect is close to British RP albeit with many variants due to the conflict of two standardising forces i.e. British RP and the basilect mesolect The vowel system of an officially adopted endonormative standard Nigerian RP would mainly be the same as that of British RP but the optimality mechanism could be employed to give preference to some of the Nigerian variants for inclusion in it Home Birth - E-Book Anna-Marie Madeley, 2023-07-15 As the rate of homebirth increases in the UK this important new book offers a basic practical guide for anyone involved in the planning resourcing and facilitation of safe and respectful birth at home Blending both contemporary academic and clinical practice this textbook covers the whole scope of home birth practice from antenatal care delivery and postnatal care as well as management of emergencies at home and practical advice for managing transfer Facilitating a safe home birth requires a robust multidisciplinary team approach Whatever your role in planning or attending a birth at home and whether you are a student practising midwife paramedic or obstetrician this resource will have something for you Covers the whole scope of home birth practice for each member the multidisciplinary team Written by leading experts from diverse backgrounds including midwives paramedics obstetricians and neonatal nurses from clinical practice academia and education Presents balanced and unbiased contemporary evidence supporting birth at home Discusses effective care planning from developing a homebirth services practical resources and skills equipment planning and geographical considerations Covers important topics within midwifery including the rise of freebirthing multidisciplinary team working and the care of women with complex biopsychosocial needs or from underrepresented communities Clearly identifies roles and responsibilities of the multidisciplinary team Suitable for midwifery students embarking on a home birth placement Foundation Studies for Caring Edward Alan Glasper, Gillian McEwing, John E. Richardson, 2018-01-16 Supported by a companion skills volume and website Foundation Studies for Caring is a comprehensive introductory text for all health professionals which maps directly on to the key skills framework Taking a student centred learning and interprofessional approach it is the most inclusive and engaging theory text in the market
