Myra Hindley Jean Ritchie, 1988      Moving Targets Helen Birch, 1994-08-08 The rampaging female has become a new cliché in Hollywood cinema a sexy beauty stabbing and shooting her way to box office success Fatal Attraction Thelma and Louise The Hand That Rocks the Cradle and Single White Female are a few of the recent mainstream films that have attracted huge audiences Meanwhile true accounts of a teenager shooting her lover's wife and a battered woman bludgeoning her husband to death get prime news media coverage and are quickly made into TV movies This pioneering collection of essays looks at our enduring fascination with women who murder The authors explore how both fictional and real women are represented as well as the way society responds to these women The result is an often shocking picture of female violence that covers a vast territory the Australian outback a Florida highway an Austrian hospital a French village and Hollywood The women are as diverse as their settings middle class housewives prostitutes house maids nurses high powered professionals There is much here to provoke controversy Society's uncertainty over the role of premenstrual syndrome the fear of lesbianism female violence as self defense against patriarchy and appropriate female behavior are issues that push buttons on several levels Moving Targets is must reading for anyone concerned with violence and representations of women in our culture

The Subject of Murder Lisa Downing, 2024-05-31 The subject of murder has always held a particular fascination for us But since at least the nineteenth century we have seen the murderer as different from the ordinary citizen a special individual like an artist or a genius who exists apart from the moral majority a sovereign self who obeys only the destructive urge sometimes even commanding cult followings In contemporary culture we continue to believe that there is something different and exceptional about killers but is the murderer such a distinctive type Are they degenerate beasts or supermen as they have been depicted on the page and the screen Or are murderers something else entirely In The Subject of Murder Lisa Downing explores the ways in which the figure of the murderer has been made to signify a specific kind of social subject in Western modernity Drawing on the work of Foucault in her studies of the lives and crimes of killers in Europe and the United States Downing interrogates the meanings of media and texts produced about and by murderers Upending the usual treatment of murderers as isolated figures or exceptional individuals Downing argues that they are ordinary people reflections of our society at the intersections of gender agency desire and violence

Sin and Forgiveness Kay Carmichael,2019-09-16 Originally published in 2003 Western attitudes to crime were in the past rooted in concepts of sin and therefore of hopes for redemption and forgiveness So what happens to offenders and society as a whole in a world where people no longer talk of sin but of evil If hopes of redemption go too will revenge take the place of forgiveness Kay Carmichael explores these dilemmas in this topical and provocative book She traces the stories of Myra Hindley Mary Bell Sarah Payne James Bulger and his killers comparing public responses to such crimes in various Western countries Art and literature are examined for the light they throw on the evolution of our ideas about sin and forgiveness from Rembrandt to Nathaniel Hawthorne Samuel Becket Dali and writings inspired by the Holocaust Turning to our own day Carmichael discusses the emergence of structural sins or iniquities in which we may all find ourselves involved poverty slavery violence and war are her themes Her analysis leaves her sceptical about many contemporary appeals for forgiveness but hopeful about ideas of restorative justice Cases on Crimes, Investigations, and Media Coverage

How to Make a Serial Killer Christopher Berry-Dee, 2011-02 They were born into this world as innocent children They ended up as merciless killing machines How to Make a Serial Killer leads the reader on an insightful scary and often disturbing investigation into what made these infamous murderers go bad Is there really a demon seed Do genes play a role Was it their family background How did pe

A Plague of Murder Colin Wilson, Damon Wilson, 2020-04-30 The renowned criminologist and author of The Outsider delivers a penetrating study of serial killers as a uniquely modern phenomenon In this fascinating study Colin Wilson explores the roots of the serial killer mindset and the origins of this terrifying modern personality The term serial killer is still relatively new coined by the FBI to describe those who murder repeatedly and obsessively usually with a sexual motive Who are these killers What social and psychological pressures drive them to their crimes Can we understand and learn to predict their behavior Wilson offers revealing profiles of some of the most infamous killers in modern history from Jack the Ripper to Jeffrey Dahmer the monster of Milwaukee Reginald Christie to Dennis Nilsen who killed for company the Boston Strangler to Donald Gaskins who murdered more than 100 victims as well as Richard Ramirez the Night Stalker and many more

Using Murder Philip Jenkins, In the last decade serial murder has become a source of major concern for law enforcement agencies while the serial killer has attracted widespread interest as a villain in popular culture There is no doubt however that popular fears and stereotypes have vastly exaggerated the actual scale of multiple homicide activity In assessing the concern and the interest Jenkins has produced an innovative synthesis of approaches to social problem construction It includes an historical and social scientific estimate of the objective scale of serial murder a rhetorical analysis of the construction of the phenomenon in public debate and a cultural studies oriented analysis of the portrayal of serial murder in contemporary literature film and the mass media Using Murder suggests that a problem of this sort can only be understood in the context of its political and rhetorical dimension that fears of crime and violence are valuable for particular constituencies and interest groups which put them to their own uses In part these agendas are bureaucratic in the sense that exaggerated concern about the offense generates support for criminal justice agencies But other forces are at work in the culture at large where serial murder has become an invaluable rhetorical weapon in public debates over issues like gender race and sexual orientation Serial murder is worthy of study not so much for its intrinsic significance but rather for what it suggests about the concerns needs and fears of the society that has come to portray it as an ultimate evil Using Murder is a highly original study of a powerful contemporary mythology by a criminologist and historian versed in the constructionist literature on the origins of moral panics

Ian Brady Alan Keightley,2017-05-22 Since May 1966 when Ian Brady and Myra Hindley were sentenced to life imprisonment at Chester Assizes the British public has been absorbed and horrified by the Moors Murders Ian Brady has often been aptly described as the most evil man alive or the Daddy of the Devils while Myra Hindley Britain s first female serial killer became the most hated woman in Britain Here is the definitive account drawing on exclusive never before seen material It changes forever our understanding of the Moors couple and their heinous crimes Why did they do it What actually happened Unlikely as it may appear to those detectives psychiatrists authors criminologists journalists and the victims families who have all sought in their own ways for decades to discover it this book is possibly as near as we shall ever get to understanding how the victims died It proves beyond question that the parents of the victims were right all along in their claims about Hindley s part in the murders Did Brady give an account to anyone of his life Myra Hindley and their crimes before he died Yes he did here it is

Serial Murder and Media Circuses Dirk C. Gibson,2006-07-30 The Axman of New Orleans specialized in killing grocers of Italian descent in the 1910s apparently to promote jazz music Dorothea Puente was a little old landlady who murdered her tenants but kept cashing their government checks The Manson Family terrorized California in the 1960s as did the Hillside Stranglers a decade later Twelve serial murder cases occurring in eight decades between the 1890s and 1990s had one thing in common significant presence of the mass media This book examines these specific cases of serial murder and the way the media became involved in the investigations and trials of each Gibson argues that the American media plays a multidimensional and integral role in serial killings and their investigation and that this role is not generally a positive one Serial murder cases motivate the media in unfortunate ways and the result is that even typically respectable media organizations can be involved in such things as document theft or in interfering with the capture of serial murderers on the run This link between multiple murderers and mass communication is not accidental or coincidental rather the relationship between the press and serial killers is one of extraordinary importance to both parties Gibson examines the role of the media in serial murder cases the body of knowledge on serial murder as seen through the lens of mass communication the effectiveness of law enforcement responses to serial murderers and how they might be improved if the mass communication influence was better understood the magnitude of the serial murder problem and the interaction between the media the killers and serial murder investigations Specific examples and numerous quotes are provided throughout to illustrate this strange and detrimental relationship between media and serial murderers

Exploring the Mandatory Life Sentence for Murder Barry Mitchell, Julian V Roberts, 2012-10-19. Murder is often regarded as both the ultimate and a unique crime, and whereas courts are normally given discretion in sentencing offenders for murder, the sentence is mandatory indeterminate imprisonment. Since the crime and the punishment come as a package deal, this book looks at both the legal nature of the offence and at the current operation of the mandatory life sentence. Not only does the book adopt a critical approach by assessing the strengths and weaknesses of the status quo, it also draws upon comparative material from both common and civil law jurisdictions in an attempt to provide a comprehensive exploration of these issues. The need for public confidence in the criminal justice system is particularly acute in the way it deals with the most serious homicides. In this book, the authors report findings from the first systematic exploration of public attitudes to sentencing murder in this or any other common law jurisdiction. The picture of public opinion emerging from this recent large-scale nationwide qualitative and quantitative survey funded by the Nuffield Foundation is likely to surprise many and will be of interest to all jurisdictions where the mandatory life sentence for murder has been questioned.

Media and Crime Yvonne Jewkes, 2004-08-17. Media and Crime is a thought-provoking and scholarly work written in a very lively style. It will be of interest to readers of SCHOLAG whether or not they have some knowledge of criminological theories. Jean McFadden, SCHOLAG Journal. Criminologists and a bewildering array of other voices have commented on the relationship between media and crime on many occasions over many decades. Those of us who have worked and taught in this area have often sensed the lack of an authoritative systematic and up-to-date text to which one could refer with confidence. Yvonne Jewkes has now given us that book and we are in her debt Jewkes is one of the few who knows the fields of both media studies and criminology equally well She writes with confidence clarity insight and style Media and Crime does not just cover the debate it moves it forward This is a striking and admirable achievement This book will be widely read and widely welcomed by students and by Jewkes s academic peers Professor Richard Sparks University of Edinburgh The book reviews key media and criminological debates against contemporary developments in the media and twenty first century concerns about crime More than that Media and Crime is intellectually provocative lucid astute and simply a good read Dr Maggie Wykes University of Sheffield A thought provoking critical analysis of how the mass media construct the issue of crime in the public realm Clearly written and based on a wide ranging review of research on crime and media it will be an invaluable source for students Professor Robert Reiner London School of Economics and Political Science This book offers a vibrant and lucid guide to the constructions of crime in media culture and the complex interactions between consumers and producers Comprehensive and authoritatively written Media and Crime should appear on all essential reading lists for students of criminology and media culture Paul Mason Southampton Institute Why do only certain criminal events become thrust into the public sphere with sufficient vigour to shape public fears of victimization Why are some crimes sustained by sufficiently intense public outcry to become part of our cultural fabric while other almost identical incidents fail to capture the collective imagination Why do some very serious crimes cast a much longer shadow than others and some offenders take on an iconic evilness while others fade into quiet obscurity This book points a critical spotlight on media constructions of crime and social control developing our understanding of the relationship between media and crime and taking existing knowledge in new directions Media and Crime is an accessible text with a strong pedagogic purpose making it an ideal introduction to the study of crime and the mass media for undergraduate and postgraduate students The author interrogates the most important literature in the field as well as moving the debates forward with new ideas and values Substantive topics of current interest are covered including news reporting of crime media constructions of children and women as victims and offenders moral panics over paedophiles the relationship between the media and the police reality crime shows surveillance and social control new media Chapter overviews key terms study questions and suggestions for further reading map the key issues in this vital and topical area of debate The book is essential reading for students in a wide range of academic fields including criminology media studies sociology gender studies and psychology
