totally open society perhaps the most astonishing national transformation in modern history Born to a working class family in the Dublin suburbs O Toole served as an altar boy and attended a Christian Brothers school much as his forebears did He was enthralled by American Westerns suddenly appearing on Irish television which were not that far from his own experience given that Ireland's main export was beef and it was still not unknown for herds of cattle to clatter down Dublin's streets Yet the Westerns were a sign of what was to come O Toole narrates the once unthinkable collapse of the all powerful Catholic Church brought down by scandal and by the activism of ordinary Irish women in particular He relates the horrific violence of the Troubles in Northern Ireland which led most Irish to reject violent nationalism In O Toole's telling America became a lodestar from John F Kennedy's 1963 visit when the soon to be martyred American president was welcomed as a native son to the emergence of the Irish technology sector in the late 1990s driven by American corporations which set Ireland on the path toward particular disaster during the 2008 financial crisis A remarkably compassionate yet exacting observer O Toole in coruscating prose captures the peculiar Irish habit of deliberate unknowing which allowed myths of national greatness to persist even as the foundations were crumbling Forty years in the making We Don't Know Ourselves is a landmark work a memoir and a national history that ultimately reveals how the two modes are entwined for all of us
