This book argues that the study of religion needs philosophy in the form of multidisciplinary comparative inquiry. Contradicting the current tendency to regard philosophical reflection and the academic study of religion as independent endeavors best kept apart, Wesley J. Wildman brings them together offering a broader vision than that of traditional philosophy of religion and surmounting many of its difficulties. His newer conception of religious philosophy is well suited to the modern multicultural secular university. Through multidisciplinary comparative inquiry, religious philosophy allows for a variety of approaches from historical and analytical work to evocative description and theoretical evaluation of truth claims, and both secular and religious thinkers participate. The tasks and varieties of religious philosophy as they arc across the world's religions and philosophies are discussed along with religious philosophy's modern and postmodern contexts. Wildman's thoughtful and thought-provoking book will be essential reading for all those concerned with the study of religion present and future. Metaphysics Peter Van Inwagen, Dean W. Evolution and the Big Questions David N. Stamos, 2011-09-23. Evolution and the Big Questions David N. Stamos. Evolution and the Big Questions delivers what its title promises: you get to look at all of the issues such as race and ethics and religion that make the study of evolution so interesting and more than just a science. The book is written in a clear and friendly manner and deserves a very wide readership. Michael Ruse, Florida State University. This provocative text considers whether evolutionary explanations can be used to clarify some of life's biggest questions. It offers a lively, informative, and timely look at a wide variety of key issues facing all of us today, including questions of race, sex, gender, the nature of language, religion, ethics, knowledge, consciousness, and ultimately the meaning of life. Some of the questions examined are: Did evolution make men and women fundamentally different? Is the concept of race merely a social construction? Is morality, including universal human rights, a mass delusion? Can religion and evolution really be harmonized? Does evolution render life meaningless? Designed for students and anyone with an interest in the relationship between evolutionary heritage and human nature, the text takes an interdisciplinary approach and offers direction for further reading and research. Each chapter presents a main topic together with discussion of related ideas and arguments from various perspectives. Along the way, it poses life's biggest questions, pulling no punches and presenting a challenge to thinkers on all levels. The Big Questions Robert C.
