Mersin-10, Turkey Eddie Girdner, 2015-06-30 An adventurous American academic travels to North Cyprus to teach at a new university He has no idea what it will be like living and working in a country which has no official international recognition except by Turkey All mail must be addressed to Mersin 10 Turkey to reach the north side of the Island There is no internet or email It is a lonesome existence and the mostly Turkish students are not prepared to study in English It is a hard struggle and discouraging when the electrical power breaks down for several months The Cyprus Problem is perpetually discussed with seemingly no possible solution in sight The Greek and Turkish Cypriots keep playing their political games while the people seem to not care In the politically charged atmosphere it is treacherous and dangerous to even express one's views of the situation Nevertheless there are rewards and frustrations He comes to look at the absurdity of daily life with a sense of humor in order to survive

Functional Analysis in Interdisciplinary Applications—II Allaberen Ashyralyev, Tynysbek Sh. Kalmenov, Michael V. Ruzhansky, Makhmud A. Sadybekov, Durvudkhan Suragan, 2021-07-03. Functional analysis is an important branch of mathematical analysis which deals with the transformations of functions and their algebraic and topological properties. Motivated by their large applicability to real-life problems, applications of functional analysis have been the aim of an intensive study effort in the last decades, yielding significant progress in the theory of functions and functional spaces, differential and difference equations and boundary value problems, differential and integral operators and spectral theory and mathematical methods in physical and engineering sciences. The present volume is devoted to these investigations.
