While European powers were at war with the Ottoman Empire for much of the eighteenth century European opera houses were staging operas featuring singing sultans and pashas surrounded by their musical courts and harems Mozart wrote The Abduction from the Seraglio Rossini created a series of works including The Italian Girl in Algiers And these are only the best known of a vast repertory This book explores how these representations of the Muslim Ottoman Empire the great nemesis of Christian Europe became so popular in the opera house and what they illustrate about European Ottoman international relations After Christian armies defeated the Ottomans at Vienna in 1683 the Turks no longer seemed as threatening Europeans increasingly understood that Turkish issues were also European issues and the political absolutism of the sultan in Istanbul was relevant for thinking about politics in Europe from the reign of Louis XIV to the age of Napoleon While Christian European composers and publics recognized that Muslim Turks were to some degree different from themselves this difference was sometimes seen as a matter of exotic costume and setting The singing Turks of the stage expressed strong political perspectives and human emotions that European audiences could recognize as their own

The Military in the Early Modern World Markus Meumann, Andrea Pühringer, 2020-12-14 When looking at the early modern period c 1500 c 1800 we often speak of the military or the army But what exactly do we mean when using these terms The forms and structures of the armed forces have not only changed between 1500 and 1800 but also varied throughout different regions of the world and even within Europe The contributors to this volume examine twelve early modern examples of armed forces in the Holy Roman Empire Western and Eastern Europe Eastern Asia and North America and paint a multifarious and even disparate picture during this period The findings suggest that modern notions of the armed forces common in the early modern period should be used more prudently to avoid prevalent implications of non existing continuity and uniformity Masculinity and Modern Slavery in Nepal Matthew Maycock, 2018-12-07. South Asia is the region with the highest number of slaves globally according to the Global Slavery Index. Bonded labour affects between 15 and 20 million labourers within the region and is shaped by locally specific interconnections between ethnicity, class, caste, and critically, gender structures. Masculinity and Modern Slavery in Nepal explores the role of masculinity in shaping the structures and experience of slavery and subsequent freedom. While many NGOs and human rights organisations use freedom from slavery as a powerful and emotive goal, the lived reality of freedom for many bonded labourers often results in disappointment and frustration as they navigate diverse expectations of masculinity. Taking Nepal as a case study, the book illustrates how men's gendered experiences of bondedness and freedom can inform perspectives on the transition to freedom and modernity in South Asia more broadly. Researchers of modern slavery, gender studies, and South Asian studies will be interested in the rich analysis on offer in this book.
