Perfect Will Theology J. Martin Bac, 2010 This book revisits four early modern debates of Reformed theology concerning the will of God Reformed scholasticism advocated a particular relationship between divine knowledge will and power which was altered by Jesuits Remonstrants Descartes and Spinoza In all these debates modal categories like contingency and necessity play a prominent part Therefore these positions are evaluated with the help of modern modal logic including possible world semantics The final part of this study presents a systematic defense of the Reformed position which has been charged of theological determinism and of making God the author of sin In modern terms therefore the relation of divine and human freedom and the problem of evil are discussed

God in the Act of Reference Erica Appelros, 2017-03-02 To claim to believe in God without accepting that God exists independently of human minds would mean reducing God to merely a human construct thus not real enough for being the object of religious worship This book sets out to challenge this common view on existence and religious belief Arguing from concrete examples of language use in children's make believe play and other ordinary situations Erica Appelros suggests that what makes us consider something to be real involves our capacities to relate to our surroundings not only on grounds of their physical characteristics but also on grounds of human construction This book makes a substantial contribution to the contemporary debate within philosophy of religion on religious realism and non realism and suggests innovative and constructive solutions to the perennial philosophical and religious issue of what is meant by talking about God and God's existence
