Murrells Inlet Steven G. Strickland, 2012 Murrells Inlet is a paradise as one of the few areas in the United States with access to both freshwater rivers and saltwater creeks The Atlantic Ocean is on its east and the Waccamaw River is on its west From its early beginnings as rice and indigo plantations to the rapid growth that began in the 1970s Murrells Inlet has prospered because of its rich natural resources that natives and visitors enjoy The saltwater creeks provided nourishment entertainment and a nursery to the creek rats fishermen families and captains who ventured out to the muddy banks

South Carolina's Lowcountry Best of Images of America, 2000      Myrtle Beach and the Grand Strand Susan Hoffer McMillan, 2007 The once quiet towns of the Grand Strand are being replaced by mega structures for accommodation dining and entertainment Images in this volume span the 20th century chronicling the evolution of a resort once touted as the world's greatest playground Featured are the former Myrtle Beach Pavilion beach hotel expansions and freshwater estuaries overshadowed by development      Brookgreen Gardens: Atalaya Robin R. Salmon, 2018 Railroad and shipyard heir Archer Milton Huntington and his sculptor wife Anna Hyatt Huntington bought four former rice plantations on the northeastern coast of South Carolina in 1930 to create a winter home The special nature of the 9 000 acre property stretching from the Atlantic Ocean to the Waccamaw River prompted the couple to establish Brookgreen Gardens the first public sculpture garden in America and a sanctuary for southeastern plants and animals Archer Huntington's passion for the history and culture of Spain was shown in the home he designed Inspired by the Moorish architecture of Spain and northern Africa Atalaya was not the usual millionaire's beach resort although it provided an economic boon to the area The home was a retreat while Anna recuperated from tuberculosis and Archer continued his business and philanthropic interests Today Atalaya is part of Huntington Beach State Park where visitors tour the home with a docent or an audio tour and are intrigued by its design and the legacy of the Huntingtons      Brookgreen Gardens Robin R. Salmon, 2006 Brookgreen Gardens evolved into the cultural attraction it is today from its beginning in 1930 as a winter home for philanthropist Archer Milton Huntington and his wife sculptor Anna Hyatt Huntington The 9 000 acre tract had been four rice plantations as early as the 18th century Home to rice planters sportsmen statesmen industrialists horticulturists soldiers novelists artists and poets Brookgreen has entertained the great and the humble throughout its 300 year history This book provides photographic glimpses of the men women and places connected with the land that became Brookgreen Gardens and documents Brookgreen's emergence as America's first public sculpture garden A National Historic Landmark Brookgreen's significance rests in its history and in its future service to visitors      Dreaming with Animals L. Kerr Dunn, 2017-10-03 The story of the extraordinary life and art of a renowned female sculptor of realistic animal statues Dreaming with Animals is the first children's biography of celebrated sculptor and Brookgreen Gardens cofounder Anna Hyatt Huntington Her remarkable life serves as an inspiration not only because of the greatness of her art but also because of her courage and perseverance L Kerr

Dunn highlights how Anna overcame society's expectations of women and survived a life-threatening illness to become a prolific sculptor and an important benefactor of art and wildlife until her death at age ninety-seven. As a young woman, Anna moved to New York City at a time when American women of her class rarely lived alone or worked outside the home. Although she studied briefly under famous sculptors, she soon felt restless and left art school and began to teach herself to sculpt animals by watching them closely, trying to see the animal's true spirit and then representing that spirit in her work. Over time, Anna established herself as an important animalier, an artist specializing in realistic portrayals of animals. By 1915, she was one of only ten American women artists earning enough money from the sales of her art to support herself. Later, with her husband Archer Huntington, Anna founded South Carolina sculpture garden and wildlife preserve Brookgreen Gardens, the country's first public sculpture garden and the world's largest collection of figurative sculpture by American artists in an outdoor setting. This biography provides engaging details of Anna's life, such as her tendency as a child to lie in pastures studying horses, her travels around the country with her husband in a trailer full of monkeys, dogs, and birds, and the couple's purchase of a zoo. In Dreaming with Animals, Dunn has provided us with an affecting portrait of a strong, capable, talented, and innovative woman. Robin R. Salmon, vice president for collections and curator of sculpture at Brookgreen Gardens, provides a foreword. Sculpture Review, 1989. Animal & Sporting Artists in America F. Turner Reuter, 2008. Bessie Potter Vonnoh Julie Aronson, Janis C. Conner, 2008. In the Gilded Age, when most sculptors aspired to produce monuments, Bessie Potter Vonnoh (1872-1955) made significant contributions to small bronze sculpture and garden statuary designed for the embellishment of the home. Her work commanded admiration for her fluid and suggestive modeling, graceful lines, and sculptural form. In 1904, Bessie Potter Vonnoh won the gold medal for sculpture at the St. Louis World's Fair for bronzes of contemporary American women and children that delighted all who saw them. Although Vonnoh's work is represented today in museums throughout the United States, Bessie Potter Vonnoh: Sculptor of Women provides for the first time an intimate and engaging encounter with one of the most widely respected sculptors of her day. Julie Aronson explores how, by concentrating on sculpture for domestic settings that expertly combined naturalism with elegance, Vonnoh negotiated a male-dominated field to create a pathway to professional success and made high-quality sculpture accessible to a wider audience. In an essay that examines Vonnoh's relationship with her foundries and scrutinizes bronze castings, Janis Conner demystifies baffling issues of authenticity and quality in turn-of-the-century bronzes. This copiously illustrated book is indispensable for all sculpture enthusiasts. It accompanies the first exhibition since 1930 dedicated to the art of Bessie Potter Vonnoh. Seeing America Melissa A. McEuen. Seeing America explores the camera work of five women who directed their visions toward influencing social policy and cultural theory. Taken together, they visually articulated the essential ideas occupying the American consciousness in the years between the world wars. Melissa McEuen examines the work of Doris Ulmann, who made portraits of celebrated artists in urban areas and lesser-known craftspeople in rural places; Dorothea Lange, who magnified human dignity in the midst of poverty and unemployment Marion Post Wolcott a steadfast believer in collective strength as the antidote to social ills and the best defense against future challenges Margaret Bourke White who applied avant garde advertising techniques in her exploration of the human condition and Berenice Abbott a devoted observer of the continuous motion and chaotic energy that characterized the modern cityscape Combining feminist biography with analysis of visual texts McEuen considers the various prisms through which each woman saw and revealed America Their documentary photographs were the result of personal visions that had been formed by experiences and emotions as well as by careful calculations and technological processes These photographers captured the astounding variety of occupations values and leisure activities that shaped the nation and their photographs illuminate the intricate workings of American culture in the 1920s and 1930s

New Approaches to Gone With the Wind James A. Crank, 2015-12-14 Since its publication in 1936 Gone with the Wind has held a unique position in American cultural memory both for its particular vision of the American South in the age of the Civil War and for its often controversial portrayals of race gender and class New Approaches to Gone with the Wind offers neither apology nor rehabilitation for the novel and its Oscar winning film adaptation Instead the nine essays provide distinct compelling insights that challenge and complicate conventional associations Racial and sexual identity form a cornerstone of the collection Mark C Jerng and Charlene Register each examine Margaret Mitchell's reframing of traditional racial identities and the impact on audience sympathy and engagement Jessica Sims mines Mitchell's depiction of childbirth for what it reveals about changing ideas of femininity in a postplantation economy while Deborah Barker explores transgressive sexuality in the film version by comparing it to the depiction of rape in D W Griffith's earlier silent classic Birth of a Nation Other essays position the novel and film within the context of their legacy and their impact on national and international audiences Amy Clukey and James Crank inspect the reception of Gone with the Wind by Irish critics and gay communities respectively Daniel Cross Turner Keaghan Turner and Rich Richardson consider its aesthetic impact and mythology and the ways that contemporary writers and artists such as Natasha Trethewey and Kara Walker have engaged with the work Finally Helen Taylor sums up the pervading influence that Gone with the Wind continues to exert on audiences in both America and Britain Through an emphasis on intertextuality sexuality and questions of audience and identity these essayists deepen the ongoing conversation about the cultural impact and influence of this monumental work Flawed in many ways yet successful beyond its time Gone with the Wind remains a touchstone in southern studies
