soldiers in faraway fields became a national priority Protestants led in the readjustment of attitudes toward sport Catholics Jews Mormons and Muslims followed The Irish at Notre Dame outstanding Jews in baseball Black Muslims in the boxing ring and born again athletes at Liberty University represent the numerous negotiations and compromises producing the unique American mixture of religion and sport

Man Up Hunter M. Hampton, 2017 Man Up Muscular Christianity and the Making of 20th Century American Religion examines the history of muscular Christianity in 20th century America Specifically I analyze how liberal Protestants Catholics Mormons fundamentalists and evangelicals used muscular Christianity to navigate the cultural waters from religious outsiders into the mainstream My project began by asking why millions of Americans hear sermons filled with sports analogies attend Bible studies that follow a basketball game and read books written by NFL quarterbacks I discovered that over the course of the 20th century religious institutions particularly religious colleges used muscular Christianity to attract convert and retain men By using student newspapers from Notre Dame BYU and Wheaton College as a primary source base my research provides a grassroots perspective on how the laity lived this religious message preached by religious authorities I conclude that these communities used muscular Christianity to solidify their distinct religious identities and dissolve barriers with outsiders Though its iterations shift over time and within each religious community the blend of masculinity sports heroic savagery and homosocial community remained the remedy for the next generation to man up My project expands the interpretation of 20th century American history in three ways First I illustrate that muscular Christianity is one of the primary shapers of 20th century American religion Second my research explicates the larger cultural trends of therapeutic and consumer culture on American religion Finally my project helps fill the void in the history of religion and sports

Gender and Christianity in Modern Europe Patrick Pasture, 2012 Case studies upon the use of concepts like feminization and masculinization in relation to christianity Since the 1970s the feminization thesis has become a powerful trope in the rewriting of the social history of Christendom However this thesis has triggered some vehement debates given that men have continued to dominate the churches and the churches themselves have reacted to the association of religion and femininity often formulated by their critics by explicitly focusing their appeal to men In this book the authors critically reflect upon the use of concepts like feminization and masculinization in relation to Christianity

Sociology of Sport and Social Theory Earl Smith, 2010 Sociology of Sport and Social Theory presents current research perspectives from major sport scholars and leading sociologists regarding issues germane to the sociology of sport while addressing traditional and contemporary sociological theories
