Musical Listening in the Age of Technological Reproduction Gianmario Borio, 2016-04-29 It is undeniable that technology has made a tangible impact on the nature of musical listening The new media have changed our relationship with music in a myriad of ways not least because the experience of listening can now be prolonged at will and repeated at any time and in any space Moreover among the more striking social phenomena ushered in by the technological revolution one cannot fail to mention music's current status as a commodity and popular music's unprecedented global reach In response to these new social and perceptual conditions the act of listening has diversified into a wide range of patterns of behaviour which seem to resist any attempt at unification Concentrated listening the form of musical reception fostered by Western art music now appears to be but one of the many ways in which audiences respond to organized sound Cinema for example has developed specific ways of combining images and sounds and more recently digital technology has redefined the standard forms of mass communication Information is aestheticized and music in turn is incorporated into pre-existing symbolic fields This volume the first in the series Musical Cultures of the Twentieth Century offers a wide-ranging exploration of the relations between sound technology and listening practices considered from the complementary perspectives of art music and popular music music theatre and multimedia composition and performance ethnographic and anthropological research

Sync or Swarm, Revised Edition David Borgo, 2022-02-10 The revised edition of Sync or Swarm promotes an ecological view of musicking moving us from a subject centered to a system centered view of improvisation It explores cycles of organismic self-regulation cycles of sensorimotor coupling between organism and environment and cycles of intersubjective interaction mediated via socio-technological networks Chapters funnel outward from the solo improviser Evan Parker to nonlinear group dynamics Sam Rivers trio to networks that comprise improvisational communities to pedagogical dynamics that affect how individuals learn completing the hermeneutic circle Winner of the Society for Ethnomusicology s Alan Merriam prize in its first edition the revised edition features new sections that highlight electro acoustic and transcultural improvisation and concomitant issues of human machine interaction and postcolonial studies

Song Interpretation in 21st-Century Pop Music Dr Ralf von Appen, Dr André Doebling, Professor Dietrich Helms, Professor Allan F Moore, 2015-05-28 Existing books on the analysis of popular music focus on theory and methodology and normally discuss parts of songs briefly as examples In this book the obverse is true songs take centre stage The authors analyse them from a variety of theoretical positions compare their different hearings and discuss the ways in which they make sense of specific songs By concentrating on 13 well known and recent songs this book offers some model analyses that can be studied at home or used in seminars and classrooms for students of popular music at all academic levels

The Faure Song Cycles Stephen Rumph, 2020-09-29 Gabriel Faur s m lodies offer an inexhaustible variety of style and expression that have made them the foundation of the French art song repertoire During the second half of his long career Faur composed all but a handful of his songs within six carefully integrated cycles Faur moved systematically through his poetic contemporaries exhausting Baudelaire's Les fleurs du mal before immersing himself in the Parnassian poets He would set nine poems by Armand Silvestre in swift succession 1878-84 seventeen by Paul Verlaine 1887-94 and eighteen by Charles Van Lerberghe 1906-14 As an artist deeply engaged with some of the most important cultural issues of the period Faur reimagined his musical idiom with each new poet and school and his song cycles show the same sensitivity to the poetic material Far more than Debussy Ravel or Poulenc he crafted his song cycles as integrated works reordering poems freely and using narrative key schemes and even leitmotifs to unify the individual songs The Faur Song Cycles explores the peculiar vision behind each synthesis of music and verse revealing the astonishing imagination and insight of Faur's musical readings This book offers not only close readings of Faur's musical works but an interdisciplinary study of how he responded to the changing schools and aesthetic currents of French poetry
