Dorr, 2018-01-25 In On Site In Sound Kirstie A Dorr examines the spatiality of sound and the ways in which the sonic is bound up in perceptions and constructions of geographic space Focusing on the hemispheric circulation of South American musical cultures Dorr shows how sonic production and spatial formation are mutually constitutive thereby pointing to how people can use music and sound to challenge and transform dominant conceptions and configurations of place Whether tracing how the evolution of the Peruvian folk song El Condor Pasa redefined the boundaries between national international and rural urban or how a pan Latin American performance center in San Francisco provided a venue through which to challenge gentrification Dorr highlights how South American musicians and activists created new and alternative networks of cultural exchange and geopolitical belonging throughout the hemisphere In linking geography with musical sound Dorr demonstrates that place is more than the location where sound is produced and circulated it is a constructed and contested domain through which social actors exert political influence

Caribbean Island Movements Carlo A. Cubero, 2017-10-09 Caribbean Island Movements explores the different ways in which being mobile is central to the production and reproduction of social identities on the Caribbean island of Culebra Rather than seeing insularity and mobility and its associations as mutually exclusive components this ethnographic study demonstrates how they mutually inform each other The book proposes the term of transinsularism as a means to articulate the complex ways in which islanders construct a unique place for themselves in the world while referencing and engaging in practices of movement Based on a long term relationship to the Caribbean island of Culebra it describes how mobile islanders select from various at times contradictory discourses and practices in the process of fashioning their sense of island identity It makes the case for a conscious social creative process where a group of individuals finds ways to narrativise a life world that operates in tension with structural social forces associated with nation building colonialism and landed narratives

Fencing in Democracy Miguel Díaz-Barriga, Margaret E. Dorsey, 2020-01-31 Border walls permeate our world with more than thirty nation states constructing them Anthropologists Margaret E Dorsey and Miguel D az Barriga argue that border wall construction manifests transformations in citizenship practices that are aimed not only at keeping migrants out but also at enmeshing citizens into a wider politics of exclusion For a decade the authors studied the U S Mexico border wall constructed by the Department of Homeland Security and observed the political protests and legal challenges that residents mounted in opposition to the wall In Fencing in Democracy Dorsey and D az Barriga take us to those border communities most affected by the wall and often ignored in national discussions about border security to highlight how the state diminishes citizens rights That dynamic speaks to the citizenship experiences of border residents that is indicative of how walls imprison the populations they are built to protect Dorsey and D az Barriga brilliantly expand conversations about citizenship the operation of U S power and the implications of border walls for the future of democracy
