Schools Reimagined Jacqueline Grennon Brooks, Martin G. Brooks, 2021 The pause in the traditional structure of schooling due to COVID 19 presents a unique opportunity for openness on many different levels openness to the science of learning openness to schoolwork centered around big ideas and authentic problems openness to responsible assessment practices and openness to a renewed ethic of social justice In this book the authors make the case that now is a timely moment to reimagine schools and put the intellectual and social emotional health of students and teachers at the center of the educational process They offer practical classroom examples across disciplines and grade levels based on constructivist pedagogy neuroscience research psychological theory and design thinking as well as on their own experiences in observing and advancing instructional practice that fosters human development Schools Reimagined will help administrators and teachers to structure their settings in ways that maximize the likelihood of meaningful and enduring student learning Book Features An approach for placing the well being of students teachers and community at the center of schools An accessible explanation of the sophisticated cognitive processes in which all people engage Strategies and innovations that focus educators on student learning and the student agency that promotes it Research based approaches to schooling with specific examples of what they look like in action Rolling summaries of the main points of each chapter throughout the text

All Together Now Suzie Boss, 2017-04-27 This book prompts readers to make their own meaning by considering a series of questions about what and how school should be Abundant examples and case studies from the frontlines of school change provide inspiration and ideas you can adopt or adapt for your context Discussion prompts are included to promote and provoke conversations both inside and outside school with everyone who has a stake in student success including students themselves Working together through collaborative inquiry and hard conversations you will arrive at your best answers for how schools should adapt for your context and your children Alternative Schooling and

Student Engagement Nina Bascia, Esther Sokolov Fine, Malcolm Levin, 2017-08-14 This book explores the unique phenomenon of public alternative schools in Toronto Canada and other large urban areas Although schools of this kind have existed for more than a century very little has been written about the alternative school movement These alternatives focus more on child centered instruction give many students and teachers opportunities to organize the school differently provide a greater voice for teachers students and parents and engage students far more with experiential learning When traditional school structures are failing to meet the needs of many children and youth there is a rapidly growing need for information and discussion about alternatives that will encourage their talents and serve their needs This book draws attention to the issue of alternative schooling to help make it more accessible to a wider audience Humility Is the New Smart Edward D.

Hess, Katherine Ludwig, 2020-06-16 Smart machines are replacing more and more jobs Edward Hess and Katherine Ludwig show how to develop abilities that machines don't have so we can thrive in this Smart Machine Age Underlying them all is a sense of personal humility honestly recognizing our limitations and working to mitigate them In nearly every industry smart machines are replacing human labor It's not just factory jobs automated technologies are handling people's investments diagnosing illnesses and analyzing written documents If we humans are going to endure Edward Hess and Katherine Ludwig say we're going to need a dose of humility We need to be humble enough to let go of the idea that smart means knowing the most using that information quickest and making the fewest mistakes Smart machines will always be better than we are at those things Instead we need to cultivate important abilities that smart machines don't have yet thinking critically creatively and innovatively and building close relationships with others so we can collaborate effectively Hess and Ludwig call this being NewSmart To develop these abilities we need to practice four specific behaviors keeping our egos out of our way managing our thoughts and emotions to curb any biases or defensiveness listening to others with an open mind and connecting with others socially and emotionally What all these behaviors have in common is again humility avoiding self centeredness so we can learn from and work with other humans Hess and Ludwig offer a guide to developing these NewSmart abilities and to creating organizations where these qualities are encouraged and rewarded Middle School

Matters Phyllis L. Fagell, 2019-08-06 A counselor and popular Washington Post contributor offers a new take on grades 6-8 as a distinct developmental phase and the perfect time to set up kids to thrive Middle school is its own important distinct territory and yet it's either written off as an uncomfortable rite of passage or lumped in with other developmental phases Based on her many years working in schools professional counselor Phyllis Fagell sees these years instead as a critical stage that parents can't afford to ignore and though middle school includes different grades in various regions Fagell maintains that the ages make more of a difference than the setting Though the transition from childhood to adolescence can be tough for kids this time of rapid physical intellectual moral social and emotional change is a unique opportunity to proactively build character and confidence Fagell helps parents use the middle school years as a low stakes training ground to teach kids the key skills they'll need to thrive now and in the future including making good friend choices negotiating conflict regulating their own emotions be their own advocates and more To answer parents most common questions and struggles with middle school aged children Fagell combines her professional and personal expertise with stories and advice from prominent psychologists doctors parents educators school professionals and middle schoolers themselves Really Good Schools
