Mother And Daughter In Therapy:

Therapy after Mom Died Lacey Tezino, 2023-09-12 Lacey's mother gave her away to a one armed white gay man. It was an unusual adoption with beautiful lessons of sacrifice, forgiveness and grief. When Lacey and her mother reunited, there were obvious clashes filled with guilt and resentment. Mother daughter relationships can be rough. When her mother died, Lacey didn't realize that she was depressed and grieved in unhealthy ways. In 2020, Lacey decided to try therapy for the first time. She takes us through her journey of attending ten sessions to process the death and the relationship with her mom. Lacey finds relief as she grieves her mother out loud through storytelling. There are millions of women who struggle to find a peaceful balance in their own mother daughter relationship. Millions more have lost their mothers and desire comfort in the lingering pain. This book is for those women may you find refuge within these pages.

The Invisible Web, 1991-12-01 Bringing new focus to the subject, THE INVISIBLE WEB investigates the family from a feminist perspective. Using the lens of gender connections between mothers and daughters, fathers and daughters, mothers and sons, and husbands and wives are analyzed and given new meaning. The authors evaluate and redefine family transitions such as divorce, single parent and female headed households, and remarried couples who are attempting to integrate their respective children with ex spouses and complicated networks of extended kin. They also reexamine traditional and emerging roles for women in their early, middle and later years. Written in an engaging format, each chapter features an in depth analysis of how gender shapes the relationship in question. This discussion is followed by fascinating vignettes of actual cases from each of the four authors whose approaches reflect different orientations to therapy. Based on the work of the Women's Project in Family Therapy, which won the 1986 AFTA Award for Distinguished Contribution to Family Therapy, this groundbreaking work is an excellent text for courses in family therapy and women's studies, an invaluable guide for mental health practitioners, and an insightful read for anyone who wishes to explore the invisible web of gender patterns in families.

Psychotherapy with Adolescent Girls and Young Women Elizabeth Perl, 2008-02-11 This book belongs on the desks of mental health professionals in a range of settings including clinical psychologists, psychiatrists, social workers, family therapists, and school psychologists and counselors.

Woman-Defined Motherhood Jane Price Knowles, Ellen Cole, 2014-02-04 Finally here is an enlightening and empowering book that defines motherhood from a feminist perspective and then explores the implications of that definition. Feminist authors examine some of women's full, rich and varied thoughts and experiences about motherhood. The major issues surrounding motherhood today are closely examined: the pervasive problem of mother blaming and mother hating, and solutions to overcome it; ageism, sexism, and motherhood; relationships between mothers and daughters; relationships between stepmothers and stepchildren; motherhood and sex roles within the family; adoption, infertility, and bestsellers as Women's Bodies, Women's Wisdom and The Wisdom of Menopause. Dr. Christiane Northrup is one of today's most trusted and visionary medical experts. Now she presents her most profound and revolutionary approach to women's health. The mother-daughter relationship sets the stage for our state of health and well-being for our entire lives. Because our mothers are our first and most powerful female role models, our most deeply ingrained beliefs about ourselves as women come from them. And our behavior in relationships with food, with our children, with our mates, and with ourselves is a reflection of those beliefs. Once we understand our mother-daughter bonds, we can rebuild our own health, whatever our age, and create a lasting positive legacy for the next generation. Mother-Daughter Wisdom introduces an entirely new map of female development, exploring the five facets of feminine power, which range from the basics of physical self-care to the discovery of passion and purpose in life. This blueprint allows any woman, whether or not she has children, to repair the gaps in her own upbringing and create a better adult relationship with her mother. If she has her own daughter, it will help her be the mother she has always wanted to be. Written with warmth, enthusiasm, and rare intelligence, Mother-Daughter Wisdom is an indispensable book destined to change lives and become essential reading for all women. The Intersection of Race, Class, and Gender in Multicultural Counseling Donald B. Pope-Davis, Hardin L. K. Coleman, 2001. Featuring an outstanding group of the leading theorists and researchers from the fields of multicultural psychology and counseling, this book begins with chapters on how the interplay of such variables of class, gender, and race interact in the development of an individual in a pluralistic society. It then presents theories on how to integrate issues of class, gender, and race into counseling theory.

Our Mothers' Daughters Judith Arcana, 1981. Social Construction and Social Work Practice Stanley L. Witkin, 2011-11-22. Social construction addresses the cultural factors and social dynamics that give rise to and maintain values and beliefs. Drawing on postmodern philosophies and critical social and literary theories, social construction has become an important and influential framework for practice and research within social work and related fields. Embracing inclusivity and multiplicity, social construction provides a framework for knowledge and practice that is particularly congruent with social work values and aims. In this accessible collection, Stanley L. Witkin showcases the innovative ways in which social construction may be understood and expressed in practice. He calls on experienced practitioner-scholars to share their personal accounts of interpreting and applying social constructionist ideas in different settings, such as child welfare agencies, schools, and the courts, and with diverse clientele, such as resistant adolescents, disadvantaged families, indigenous populations, teachers, children in protective custody, refugee youth, and adult perpetrators of sexual crimes against children. Eschewing the prescriptive stance of most theoretical frameworks, social construction can seem challenging for students and practitioners. This book responds with rich illustrative descriptions of how social constructionist thinking has inspired practice approaches, illuminating the diversity and creative potential of practices that draw on social constructionist ideas. Writing in a direct, accessible style, contributors translate complex concepts into the language of daily encounter and care and through a committed transnational focus they demonstrate the global reach and utility of their work Chapters are provocative and thoughtful reveal great suffering and courage share inspiring stories of strength and renewal and acknowledge the challenges of an approach that complicates evidence based evaluations and requirements Children Today, 1976

Treatment of Child and Adult Survivors Byrgen P. Finkelstein,2013-08-06 First published in 1995 This is Volume five of a series that looks at the developmental stages in addressing the complex and social problem of child abuse The articles in this volume address the treatment of child victims and adult survivors of childhood sexual physical and emotional abuse and neglect Where physical abuse is concerned treatment of victims and survivors lagged far behind the treatment of sexual abuse victims and survivors This may be due in part to the fact that in cases of physical abuse with its physical manifestations that heal more attention is paid to the immediate physical safety of children than to their short and long term emotional needs Thereafter the focus of treatment tended to be on parents in hopes of preventing further abuse rather than on the abused children Gender and Power in Families Ann C.
