Application of Nanotechnology in Food Science and Food Microbiology Jayanta Kumar Patra, Han-Seung Shin, Spiros Paramithiotis, 2018-06-25 Nanotechnology is a fast evolving discipline that already produces outstanding basic knowledge and industrial applications for the benefit of society. It is a new emerging and fascinating field of science that permits advanced research in many areas. The first applications of nanotechnology mainly concerned material sciences applications in the agriculture and food sectors are still emerging. Food science nanotechnology is an area of rising attention that unties new possibilities for the food industry. Due to the rapid population growth, there is a need to produce food and beverages in a more efficient, safe, and sustainable way. The application of nanotechnology in food has also gained great importance in recent years in view of its potential application to improve production of food crops, enhance nutrition, packaging, and food safety overall. The new materials, products, and applications are anticipated to bring lots of improvements to the food and related sectors, impacting agriculture and food production, food processing, distribution, storage, sanitation, as well as the development of innovative products and sensors for effective detection of contaminants. Therefore, nanotechnology presents with a large potential to provide an opportunity for the researchers of food science, food microbiology, and other fields to develop new tools for incorporation of nanoparticles into food systems that could augment existing functions and add new ones. However, the number of relative publications currently available is rather small. The present Research Topic aims to provide with basic information and practical applications regarding all aspects related to the applications of nanotechnology in food science and food microbiology, namely nanoparticle synthesis, especially through the eco-friendly perspective, potential applications in food processing, biosensor development, alternative strategies for effective pathogenic bacteria monitoring, as well as the possible effects on human health and the environment.

East African Mammals Jonathan Kingdon, 1984 Acclaimed and coveted by both naturalists and lovers of wildlife illustration, Jonathan Kingdon's seven-volume East African Mammals has become a classic of modern natural history. This paperback edition makes Kingdon's remarkable artistic and scientific achievement, his hundreds of drawings and perceptive study of all the mammals in East Africa's species-rich fauna, available to the wide audience it deserves. Volume I of East African Mammals contains introductory chapters on method, the East African environment, vegetation, the Bwamba Forest, time perspectives on mammalian evolution, and mammalian anatomy. The major portion of the book is devoted to the study of primate species by species, until all that occur in East Africa have been illustrated, and their behavior, ecology, and anatomy discussed. In each volume, Kingdon combines his text with hundreds of finished drawings and quick sketches, the latter a form of field note that provides an incomparable description of the animal's movements and personality. Kingdon explains his drawings as a wordless questioning of form. The probing pencil is like the dissecting scalpel seeking to expose relevant structures that may not be immediately obvious and are certainly hidden from the shadowy world of the camera lens. As an artist, Kingdon's achievement has been compared with Audubon's as a scientist; his work has made these volumes indispensable to any serious student of East African mammals.

Translations of Urban Regulation in Relations between Kigali (Rwanda) and Singapore Stephan Bock, 2018. Following debates on urban policy, mobilities and learning in Human Geographies, the dissertation takes the example of Kigali's masterplan to show how aspirations of Rwandan and Singaporean policy makers are transformed into concrete urban planning interactions. It provides a close analysis of the practices behind the mobilization of spatial planning expertise. The dissertation traces how planning approaches and regulations are mediated within the interaction between Singaporean and Rwandan actors and ultimately take shape in Kigali's urban space.

Fragile States and Insecure People? L. Andersen, B. Møller, F. Stepputat, 2007-08-06. This book provides a unique account of the pursuit of security at the edge of the global order. It sheds light on reform of state police and armed forces and analyses the alternative security structures that emerge in the absence of the state. This book remains open-minded as to which model for security is better.

Encyclopedia of the World's Biomes, 2020-06-26. Encyclopedia of the World's Biomes is a unique five-volume reference that provides a global synthesis of biomes including the latest science. All of the book's chapters follow a common thematic order that spans biodiversity, importance, principal anthropogenic stressors and trends, changing climatic conditions and conservation strategies for maintaining biomes in an increasingly human-dominated world. This work is a one-stop shop that gives users access to up-to-date informative articles that go deeper in content than any currently available publication. Offers students and researchers a one-stop shop for information currently only available in scattered or non-technical sources. Authored and edited by top scientists in the field. Concisely written to guide the reader through the topic. Includes meaningful illustrations and suggests further reading for those needing more specific information.

The Status of Student Involvement in University Governance in Kenya Mulinge, Munyae M., Arasa, Josephine N., 2017-05-05 This book examines the concept of the democratization of governance in universities in Kenya with particular emphasis on students involvement in governance processes and decision making Data were collected from members of the student community utilizing a structured self administered questionnaire and from purposively selected key informants and focus group discussants drawn from Kenyatta University representing the public sector and the United States International University representing the private sector The guiding argument for the study was that shared governance one of the principles of good governance is critical in enabling the universities to deliver their visions and the missions effectively

The results revealed that while in principle Kenyan universities have embraced democratic governance in which all stakeholders including students have a role to play in practice they continue to violate the core principles of good governance particularly shared governance Specifically students who are major stakeholders in university education are largely excluded from significant structures of governance thereby limiting their influence and participation Although their representation is mainly provided via student self governance organs unions associations and or councils their effectiveness is undermined considerably by the lack of trust and confidence of the student body and the unending manipulation by top university administrators and external political actors Student active involvement in decision making is mainly confined to lower levels such as the school faculty and departmental programme The authors call for a paradigm shift in the involvement of students in the governance of universities in ways that discourage the current culture of tokenism and political correctness that characterizes public and private universities in Kenya Kenya Telephone Directory,1999 Learning and
