Of Sentimental Value John Christian Hager, 2013 Of Sentimental Value Rachael Radford, 2003-01-01

Intersections of Value Robert Stecker, 2019-04-24 Intersections of Value investigates the universal human need for aesthetic experience. It examines three appreciative contexts where aesthetic value plays a central role: art, nature, and the everyday. However, no important appreciative context or practice is completely centered on a single value. Hence, the book explores the way the aesthetic interacts with moral, cognitive, and functional values in these contexts. The account of aesthetic appreciation is complemented by analyses of the cognitive and ethical value of art, the connection between environmental ethics and aesthetics, and the degree to which the aesthetic value of everyday artefacts derives from their basic practical functions. Robert Stecker devotes special attention to art as an appreciative context because it is an especially rich arena where different values interact. There is an important connection between artistic value and aesthetic value, but it is a mistake to reduce the former to the latter. Rather, artistic value should be seen as complex and pluralistic, composed not only of aesthetic but also ethical, cognitive, and art historical values.

Economic Efficiency in Law and Economics Richard O. Zerbe, 2002-01-01 Economic Efficiency in Law and Economics is an interesting and worthwhile book. Megan Richardson, Economic Record. Zerbe's new book is high powered and potentially important. Bill Goodman, Monthly Labor Review. In this path-breaking book, Richard Zerbe introduces a new way to think about the concept of economic efficiency that is both consistent with its historical derivation and more useful than concepts currently used. He establishes an expanded version of Kaldor-Hicks efficiency as an axiomatic system that performs the following tasks: the new approach obviates certain technical and ethical criticisms that have been made of economic efficiency; it answers critics of efficiency; it allows an expanded range for efficiency analysis; it establishes the conditions under which economists can reasonably say that some state of the world is inefficient. He then applies the new analysis to a number of hard and fascinating cases, including the economics of duelling, cannibalism, and rape. He develops a new theory of common law efficiency and indicates the circumstances under which the common law will be inefficient. The book will be of great interest to scholars, students, and practitioners interested in the concept of economic efficiency and how it should be applied to law and economics.

Rational Sentimentalism Daniel Jacobson, 2023-01-24 Rational Sentimentalism develops a novel theory of the sentimental values. These values, which include the funny, the disgusting, and the shameful, are profoundly important because they set standards for emotional responses that are part of our shared human nature. Yet moral philosophers have neglected them relative to their prominent role in human mental life. The theory is sentimentalist because it holds that these values are emotion-dependent, contrary to some prominent accounts of the funny and the disgusting. Its rational aspect arises from its insistence that the shameful, for example, is not whatever elicits shame but what makes shame fitting. Shameful traits provide reasons to be ashamed that do not depend on whether one is disposed to be ashamed of them. Furthermore, these reasons to be ashamed transmit to reasons to act as shame dictates to conceal Sentimentalism requires a compatible theory of emotion and emotional fittingness This book explicates a motivational theory of emotion that explains the peculiarities of emotional motivation as other theories cannot It argues that a class of emotions are psychological kinds with a similar goal across cultures despite differences in their elicitors It then develops an account of fittingness that helps to differentiate reasons of fit which bear on the sentimental values from other considerations for or against having an emotion Significant and controversial conclusions emerge from this theory of rational sentimentalism Sentimental values conflict with one another and with morality but nevertheless provide practical reasons that apply to humans if not to all rational agents

Essential Cases on Damage Benedict Winiger, Helmut Koziol, Bernhard A. Koch, Reinhard Zimmermann, 2011-11-30 The increasing Europeanisation of the law of delict torts has produced textbooks casebooks monographs and also sets of model rules of a genuinely European character A major gap still existing today relates to the experiences gathered in the national legal systems over the past decades The present work attempts to fill this gap for one key element of tort law the notion of damage It thus does what the previous volume in the Digest of European Tort Law series did for another key element ie natural causation Once again the publication contains a selection of the most important cases decided in 26 states across Europe as well as by the European Court of Justice For each case the facts and the relevant court decision are presented and the decision is analysed within the wider context of the development of the respective legal system In addition the editors provide comparative analyses of the case law reported in this volume concerning all the specific problems raised under the heading of damage The publication also looks into how key cases would be resolved under the European model rules drafted in the field of tort law and it also highlights cases from earlier periods of legal history The editors believe that the material gathered here may provide guidance for an organic convergence of the national legal systems in Europe It constitutes the basis of an acquis commun that is infinitely richer though also much more complex than the rather bland and abstract concepts contained in national codifications European legislation and the modern model rules

occurs in social relations popular culture mass contagions fads and fashions even smiles and kisses In Klapp s view symbolic or cultural inflation applies to all social processes in which enlargement expansion or oversupply leads to the diminishing of value of a symbol Its symptoms have been noted in the arts in communications and in politics but there have been few if any attempts to analyze the mechanism by which such inflation occurs The author attempts such an analysis structuring it around those mechanisms he terms social magnifiers On the simplest level there is mere overstatement the exaggeration of claims that lose credibility as the reality is seen to fall short More socially complex are types of magnifiers that involve shared cultural values and large groups of people These include crusading the rhetorical inflation of a conflict into a war of good versus evil emotional contagion which through uncritical suggestibility draws large numbers of people into actions that exaggerate value and self expansion through identification with others the vicarious triumphs and careers of heroes and celebrities a process Klapp terms emotional hitchhiking Finally there is the market like type of cultural inflation in which oversupply of a symbol leads to a weakening of its power to elicit desired responses Klapp demonstrates how this market concept applies to such symbols as credentials medals smiles kisses greeting cards religious tokens fashions and finally to information itself The result of Klapp s study is to bring into focus this vast pervasive largely unwitting sort of inflation that eats away at cultural values that carry no price in the money market and to isolate various conditions massness egalitarianism loss of scarcity that favor social inflation and thereby help us to understand even to control it as a source of disappointment in modern society This book will be of interest to sociologists economists and students of American culture concerned with the erosion of values in an information age

Cases Decided in the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia Virginia. Supreme Court of Appeals,1917 Feeling Things Stephanie Downes,Sally Holloway,Sarah Randles,2018-01-13 This interdisciplinary essay collection investigates the various interactions of people feelings and things throughout premodern Europe It focuses on the period before mass production when limited literacy often prioritised material methods of communication The subject of materiality has been of increasing significance in recent historical inquiry alongside growing emphasis on the relationships between objects emotions and affect in archaeological and sociological research The historical intersections between materiality and emotions however have remained under theorised particularly with respect to artefacts that have continuing resonance over extended periods of time or across cultural and geographical space Feeling Things addresses the need to develop an appropriate cross disciplinary theoretical framework for the analysis of objects and emotions in European history with special attention to the need to track the shifting emotional valencies of objects from the past to the present and from one place and cultural context to another The collection draws together an international group of historians art historians curators and literary scholars working on a variety of cultural literary visual and material sources Objects considered include books letters prosthetics religious relics shoes stone and textiles Many of these have been preserved in international galleries museums and archives while others have remained in their original locations even as their contexts have changed over time The chapters consider the ways in which emotions such as despair fear grief hope love and wonder become inscribed in and ascribed to these items producing emotional objects of significance and agency Such objects can be harnessed to create affirm or express individual relationships as for example in religious devotion and practice or in the construction of cultural communal and national identities
