

BATTLE OF THE BEAKS

Biology Practical—Beak adaptation

It is expected that the practical part of this task can be completed in 45–60 minutes. The activity is intended for the whole class, but you should work individually within the group. Discussion activities will depend on the time available. There are extension activities on the last page which you may like to try.

Your class will be provided with the following apparatus:

APPARATUS

- 7 pairs of scissors
- 7 teaspoons
- 7 pairs of fine tweezers
- 7 clothes pegs
- 28 plastic beakers or cups

MATERIALS

- large paperclips
- large rubber bands
- toothpicks
- macaroni (or other small pasta)
- marbles
- mini-marshmallows
- peas

The birds in this image are known as Darwin's finches, and are found only in the Galapagos Islands. They were first collected by Charles Darwin during his voyage on HMS Beagle. The birds have developed highly specialised beak shapes, depending on the food available on each island.

In any habitat, food is limited and the types of foods available can vary. Animals with variations allowing them to take advantage of available foods will be more likely to survive. We call beneficial inherited variations adaptations. Animals with the most helpful adaptations will be the most likely to live long enough to pass their genes on to the next generation.

In this activity you will simulate bird feeding by using a beak to collect food and place it into a stomach. There are four different beak shapes and a range of different food types to choose from.

This activity will allow you to explore the wide variety of beak types that can be seen within the bird population, as well as developing an understanding of the way in which beak shape is related to the available food sources within an environment.

Note: Remember that you are in a classroom and you should behave appropriately. As this activity simulates a competitive environment, you may get carried away—but remember that you are not actually a hungry bird!
