British Women's Writing from Brontë to Bloomsbury, Volume 3 Adrienne E. Gavin, Carolyn W. de la L. Oulton, 2024-07-27 This five volume series British Women's Writing From Brontë to Bloomsbury 1840-1940 historically contextualizes and traces developments in women's fiction from 1840 to 1940 Critically assessing both canonical and lesser known British women's writing decade by decade it redefines the landscape of women's authorship across a century of dynamic social and cultural change With each of its volumes devoted to two decades the series is wide in scope but historically sharply defined Volume 3 1880s and 1890s analyses confluences and developments in women's writing across two fin de siècle decades Its 16 original essays reconsider fiction by canonical and lesser known women writers redefining the landscape of female authorship during these decades By exploring women's fiction within the social and cultural contexts of the 1880s and 1890s the collection distils in terms of women's writing how these decades discretely build on earlier work that is identifiably Victorian. The last two decades of the century in distinctive ways witnessed literary experiment, reflection on the limits of realism and a fruitful sense of confusion about what was ending and what was about to begin.

Italian Women Writers Katharine Mitchell, 2014-05-27. Post Unification Italy saw an unprecedented rise of the middle classes, an expansion in the production of print culture and increased access to education and professions for women, particularly in urban areas. Although there was still widespread illiteracy, especially among women in both rural and urban areas, there emerged a generation of women writers whose domestic fiction and journalism addressed a growing female readership. This study looks at the work of three of the most significant women writers of the period: La Marchesa Colombi, Neera and Matilde Serao. These writers, whose works had been largely forgotten for much of the last century, only to be rediscovered by the Italian feminist movement of the 1970s, were widely read and received considerable critical acclaim in their day. In their realist fiction and journalism, these professional women writers documented and brought to light the ways in which women participated in everyday life in the newly independent Italy and how their experiences differed profoundly from those of men. Katharine Mitchell shows how these three authors, while hardly radical emancipationists, offered late nineteenth-century readers an implicit feminist intervention and a legitimate means of approaching and engaging with the burning social and political issues of the day regarding the woman question: women's access to education and the professions, legal rights and suffrage. Through close examinations of these authors and a selection of their works, and with reference to their broader artistic, socio-historical and geo-political contexts, Mitchell not only draws attention to their authentic representations of contemporary social and historical realities but also considers their important role as a cultural medium and catalyst for social change.

Elsa Morante's Politics of Writing Stefania Lucamante, 2014-12-18. Elsa Morante's Politics of Writing is a collected volume of twenty-one essays written by Morante specialists and international scholars. Essays gather attention on four broad critical topics: namely, the relationship Morante entertained with the arts, cinema, theatre and the visual arts; new critical approaches to her four novels; treatment of body and sexual politics; and Morante's prophetic voice as it emerges in both her literary works and her essayistic writings. Essays focus on Elsa Morante's strategies to address her wide disinterest and contempt for the Italian intellectual status quo of her time, regardless of its political side, while showing at once her own kind of ideological commitment. Further contributors tackle the ways in which Morante's writings shape classical oppositions such as engagement and enchantment with the world, sin and repentance, self-reflection and corporality, as well as how her engagement in the visual arts, theatre and cinematic adaptations of her works garner further perspectives to her stories and characters. Her works, particularly the novels Menzogna e sortilegio (House of Liars, 1948), La Storia (Romanzo History, A Novel, 1974) and more explicitly Aracoeli (1982), foreshadowed and advanced tenets and structures later affirmed by postmodernism, namely, the fragmentation of narrative cells, rhizomatic narratives, lack of a linear temporal

Intersectional Italy Caterina Romeo, Giulia Fabbri,2024-08-16 This book questions Italian white innocence and examines the specificity of Italian racial discourse through the analysis of different kinds of texts and representations Intersectionality a theoretical and methodological approach focusing on the multidimensional discrimination that individuals and groups experience based on their race color gender and other axes of oppression has only recently been embraced as an effective methodology in Italy whose national identity is structured around the chromatic norm of whiteness The categories of race and color have been almost absent in post war public debate as well as in scholarly discourse Feminist movements and theoreticians have mostly placed gender at the core of their analyses leaving white privilege unchallenged and undertheorized Colonial and postcolonial studies have linked present day racism to Italian colonialism thus shedding light on contemporary incarnations of Empire In this volume the authors adopt an intersectional methodology to question Italian white innocence and to examine the specificity of Italian racial discourse through the analysis of different kinds of texts and representations The volume also includes two interviews with writers and intellectuals Djarah Kan and Leaticia Ouedraogo who discuss how they articulate concepts of intersectionality Blackness white privilege and structural racism in Italian contemporary culture and society The book will be of great significance to students researchers and scholars of Migration and Postcolonial Studies interested in gender class and racial identity The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Postcolonial Writing      A Practical Guide to the Women's Movement Deena

Peterson,1975      Race and Narrative in Italian Women's Writing Since Unification Melissa Coburn,2013-07-29 Race as Narrative in Italian Women s Writing Since Unification explores racist ideas and critiques of racism in four long narratives by female authors Grazia Deledda Matilde Serao Natalia Ginzburg and Gabriella Ghermandi who wrote in Italy after national unification Starting from the premise that race is a political and socio historical construction Melissa Coburn makes the argument that race is also a narrative construction This is true in that many narratives have contributed to the historical construction of the idea of race it is also true in that the concept of race metaphorically reflects certain formal qualities of narration Coburn demonstrates that at least four sets of qualities are common among narratives and central to the development of race discourse intertextuality the processes of characterization plot and tropes the tension between the projections of individual group and universal identities and the processes of identification and otherness These four sets of qualities become organizing principles of the four sequential chapters paralleling a sequential focus on the four different narrative authors. The juxtaposition of these close contextualized readings demonstrates salient continuities and discontinuities within race discourse over the period examined, revealing subtleties in the historical record overlooked by previous studies.
