English-Swahili dictionary, 1894 Dictionaries. An International Encyclopedia of Lexicography Rufus Gouws, Ulrich Heid, Wolfgang Schweickard, Herbert Ernst Wiegand, 2013-12-18 The basis for this additional volume are the three volumes of the handbooks Dictionaries An International Encyclopedia of Lexicography HSK 5 1 5 3 published between 1989 and 1991 An updating has been perceived as an important desideratum for a considerable time In the present Supplementary Volume the premises and subjects of HSK 5 1 5 3 are complemented by new articles that take account of the practice internal and theoretical developments of the last 15 years Special attention has been given to the following topics the status and function of lexicographic reference works the history of lexicography the theory of lexicography lexicographic processes lexicographic training and lexicographic institutions new metalexicographic methods electronic and especially computer assisted lexicography Using Online Dictionaries Carolin Müller-Spitzer, 2014-08-22 Until now there has been very little research into the use of online dictionaries In contrast the market for online dictionaries is increasing both for academic lexicography and for commercial lexicography with sales figures for printed reference works in continual decline This has led to a demand for reliable empirical information on how online dictionaries are actually being used and how they could be made more user friendly The volume Using Online Dictionaries makes a substantial contribution to closing this research gap It is divided into four parts The first part contains articles on fundamental issues a research review of the empirical studies on digital dictionaries which have already been carried out and a brief methodological guideline for lexicographical researchers who are interested in conducting their own empirical research The second part contains the results of two studies that focus on general questions about the use of online dictionaries It presents empirical data on contexts of dictionary use on expectations and demands regarding online dictionaries Furthermore innovative features such as the use of multimedia elements or the option of a user adaptive interface and questions of design were assessed empirically The third part of this volume comprises more specific studies of online dictionaries an eye tracking study evaluating the new web design of the dictionary portal OWID and a log file study which tries to get to the bottom of the following question Do dictionary users look up frequent words or put differently is there a connection between how often a word is looked up and how often it appears in a corpus In the last chapter of this thematic section the question of how users judge the combination of a written paraphrase and an additional illustration in illustrated online dictionaries is addressed The last part focuses on the use of monolingual dictionaries in particular the German online dictionary elexiko In this context two online questionnaire based studies were carried out The empirical studies were conducted in the form of online surveys combining questionnaires and experimental elements and in the form of laboratory studies using eye tracking technology as well as using observational methods such as log file analyses Regarding the comprehensive research framework this volume can be relevant to lexicographers metalexicographers and linguists who are interested in the use of online dictionaries and in the development and exploration of lexicographical data for the internet as well as linguists interested in empirical methods It addresses a broad expert audience by presenting an academic subject which is currently the focus of much discussion

Stigmatization, Discrimination and Illness Bohle, Leah Franziska, 2013-12-04 She was given her own plate her own cup everything of her own even when she just touched a cloth then nobody wanted to touch it again Halima HIV seropositive The book sheds light on the profound influence of an HIV seropositive diagnosis on the lives of women and their social environment in the United Republic of Tanzania The author a medical doctor and social anthropologist tells the story of six Tanzanian HIV seropositive women focusing on their negotiation and perception of illness and disease Furthermore the high levels of discrimination and stigmatization in the context of HIV seropositivity that they experience are presented in detail weaving together the impacts of an HIV seropositive diagnosis with results analyzed both from a Medical Anthropology and Public Health perspective Despite a new era of antiretroviral treatment available in Tanzania free of cost that has given cause for hope in a change in how the disease is perceived the book impressively underlines that being HIV seropositive remains a great challenge and heavy burden for women in Tanzania English-Swahili Dictionary Edward Steere, 2002

Words for Odours Melissa Barkat-Defradas, Elisabeth Motte-Florac, 2016-06-22 While the human sense of smell has long been considered underdeveloped there is nonetheless a growing body of literature to attest to its remarkable importance in human behaviour However there has been very little work conducted in linguistics which is all the more regrettable as economic globalization has made it increasingly useful to communicate on odours in a variety of domains such as the wine and perfume industries This volume brings together a number of studies on how olfactory experiences are verbalized applying both pragmatic and theoretical approaches to better understanding the different strategies speakers use to talk of odours Four major themes are investigated here Part I From Olfactory Perception to Verbalisation examines the various complex cognitive operations implemented in the process of olfactory perception Explorations of recollection processes also crucial for odour verbalization provide important insights into how cultural conditions contribute to shaping olfactory memories Part II Categories and Hedonic Valence focuses on how speakers circumvent paucity in vocabulary to describe odours in a variety of ways Sorting operations make it possible to either select an appropriate linguistic label for a given odour or to compensate for the lack thereof by using consistent descriptions Indeed although such cognitive operations are influenced by a subject's environment cultural representations and goals the contributions to this section show that hedonic value is crucial for categorizing odours Part III Lexical and Cultural Variation illustrates that some languages spoken on the African continent such as the Arabic and Bantu languages are relatively rich in their olfactory lexicon thereby revealing the greater attention paid to odours in these societies That being said such relative richness or paucity can be modulated through a variety of mechanisms which shape the linguistic output as exemplified in Part IV Putting Odours into Words where the olfactory lexicons of two Indo European languages French and Greek are analysed from a comparative perspective

English-Swahili Dictionary Arthur Cornwallis Madan,1902 Kamusi Ya Kiingereza-Kiswahili David Phineas Bhukanda Massamba,1996 This massive authoritative Swahili dictionary is the most definitive and comprehensive in existence It has taken a team of lexicographers and academics fourteen years to prepare with the support of the Institute of Kiswahili Research in Dar es Salaam The last comparable edition was in 1939 and was primarily intended to help the user to comprehend English texts The dictionary records new words and meanings of words which the language has acquired since 1939 and provides lexicographical information needed by current dictionary users There are more than 50 000 entries with an attempt to give every English word an equivalent in Swahili or otherwise a phrase and the vocabulary covers both general and specialized language Guidance is provided on use and connotation word formation and syntax and derivatives and compounds of a headword are explicitly shown in each entry The full information and arrangement given for each entry is headword homographs wordclass alternative spelling of a headword cross reference gloss definition subject label usage label regional label senses separated by numbers illustrative examples compounds derivatives and adjectival complementation

Tanzanian Affairs ,2007 Lexicography Salonee Priya,2009 Lexicography is a realm of growing academic specialization Dictionaries map meaning onto use We have innumerable dictionaries on different subjects and for different purposes which we keep referring to time and again Despite the frequency with which dictionaries are unquestioningly consulted many have little idea of what actually goes into making them or how meanings are definitively ascertained We have become so accustomed to using dictionaries that we fail to take notice of the effort and time spent in their making Understanding the finer nuances of the art of dictionary making will be of interest to everyone With changing times and the penetration of technology the bulkier forms of dictionaries have given way to softer forms This book updates the reader to the changing notions of the lexicon and dictionary making in the new realm of modern technology and newer electronic tools The book introduces us to lexicography and leads us to dictionaries for general and specific purposes It examines dictionary compilation and research and enables compilers users educators and publishers to look anew at the art of lexicography It duly takes into account the fact that dictionaries are meant to fulfill the needs of specific user groups and reflects the same in the chapters devoted to various professional dictionaries which have recently achieved widespread recognition in the lexicographical literature A good read for students of linguistics teachers and translators apart from general readers interested in knowing the intricate art of making a dictionary
