Summary of James K. A. Smith's You Are What You Love Everest Media,2022-07-24T22:59:00Z Please note This is a companion version not the original book Sample Book Insights 1 The intellectualist model of the human person assumes that learning and discipleship are primarily a matter of depositing ideas and beliefs into mind containers But this model ignores the power of habit 2 That is even versions of Christian faith that are hostile to intellectualism are still intellectualist in how they approach discipleship and Christian formation focusing on the acquisition of biblical knowledge 3 We need to recognize the limits of knowledge and understand that we are not just thinking things We are also feeling things and we need to embrace those aspects of our person 4 Instead of starting from the assumption that humans are intellectual beings we could start from the assumption that humans are first and foremost lovers The center and seat of the human person is not in the heady regions of the intellect but in the gut level regions of the heart

[-6.] ,1791 Adult Leader ,1928 Nautilus Magazine of New Thought Elizabeth Jones Towne,1927 Biblical Theology of the Old and New Testaments Brevard S. Childs,1993-04

This monumental work is the first comprehensive biblical theology to appear in many years and is the culmination of Brevard Child's lifelong commitment to constructing a biblical theology that surmounts objections to the discipline raised over the past generation. Childs rejects any approaches that overstress either the continuity or discontinuity between the Old and New Testaments. He refuses to follow the common pattern in Christian thought of identifying biblical theology with the New Testament's interest in the Old. Rather, Childs maps out an approach that reflects on the whole Christian Bible with its two very different voices, each of which retains continuing integrity and is heard on its own terms.
